COAT OF ARMS

During the middle ages, men going into battle wore suits of armor and helmets which made it impossible to see who was inside. About the time of the Third Crusade, during the latter part of the twelfth century, they began to paint identifying designs on their shields so that friends would not accidentally attack each other in the heat of battle. Later, these designs were embroidered on the surcoat worn over a coat of mail, giving us the term "coat of arms". A crest, also for identification, was worn on the top of the helmet. The design of a lion, first used in France and then in England, is a sign of royalty. It is used by kings and granted to those whom they favor, as a sign of honor. A savage, in heraldry, is represented as a bearded white man with a band of leaves around his head.

This coat of arms, with a landed estate, was given in 1497 to Nicholas Wylder by King Henry VII of England as a token of his favor. It is recorded in General Armory by Crozier, 1904 edition, page 137 and in General Armory by Burke, 1878 edition, page 1111. The description is shown below with an explanation of its meaning.

ARMS: Gules, from a fesse or charged with two barrulets azure, a demi-lion rampant issuant of the second.

CREST: A savage's head affrontee, couped at the shoulders, the temples entwined with woodbines all proper.

MOTTO: VIRTUTI MŒNIA CEDANT (Let fortresses yield to valor.)

The shield is red. Across the middle is a wide horizontal gold band. Two narrow blue stripes are on the gold band. The top half of a gold lion standing erect shows above the gold band. The crest, a bust of a savage and the band of woodbine leaves around his head are of natural color.

PREFACE

I do not consider myself a genealogist or a writer. This is my first — and probably last — attempt at either. My training as an engineer taught me to organize facts, and this is mostly a book of organized facts. My main reason for writing, though, is a poor memory. I have heard much about our family relationships from my parents, aunts, uncles and cousins, but I knew I could not remember much of it to tell, some day, to my grandchildren. The best I could do, then, was to write it down so that they would be able to read about it. There also seemed to be a need for extension of the record found in other books covering our family history. Beyond a point, their information was incomplete or inaccurate. I finally decided that if a more complete account of our family was to be made, I would have to write it. Once this project was started, I found so much interest that I resolved to have the results published as a durable book and make it available to others.

Gathering material for this book has been a thrilling and educational experience. I started out to compile a record of the descendants of my grandfather, but soon found that I could include most of the descendants of his grandfather, about six generations. Almost everyone I contacted gave complete and enthusiastic co-operation. It was great to renew acquaintance with cousins I had not seen for many years and to meet some I had not known to exist. I corresponded with people in all parts of this country and in England. There were all kinds of relative from first to sixteenth cousin and some not related but willing to help. There were writers, genealogists, librarians, archivists and public office workers. I consulted books, census records, historical societies, state departments of health and vital statistics, National Archives, military officials, town and county clerks and registers of deeds. I visited cemeteries, retirement homes and former neighbors of distant cousins. Without the help of these many people, this record would not be nearly as complete. My sister, Marcella M. Wilder assisted greatly by collecting data from members of some branches of the family. We are also indebted to Col. William Murtha Wilder and his daughter, Evalyn Wilder of Albany, Georgia for the loan of his plates from which the color prints of the Wilder coat of arms were made.

Although this is mainly a book of names, dates and places of births, marriages and deaths, I have included additional information to show what some of these people were like. You will find here, all kinds, from a convicted murderer to ministers of the Gospel. There is even one whose future was revealed in a vision. Besides the literary figures mentioned in the first few pages, there are such names as Tom Sawyer, James Bond, Charlie Brown and Robert E. Lee. An explanation is given of the basis for erroneous claims of a Wilder ancestor who came over on the Mayflower. My family knew nothing of our ancestors beyond my great-grandfather, but we can now trace them back nearly five hundred years to one favored by the King of England. I included information I found about an old will which may question the generally accepted version of the early English line. Although none of our Wilder ancestors served in the Revolutionary War, three in the Warner section, one Benedict and at least one Rowley ancestor did. Too late to include in the text, I learned of a Col. John T. Wilder of Greensburg, Ind. who commanded the Union forces at Munfordville, Kentucky and later commanded the famous Lightning Brigade during the Civil War.

I am sure that errors will be found in this record, although I have worked carefully to make it as accurate as possible. Some official records even, I found to contain obvious errors. In several instances, information from different sources did not agree. Where verification was not possible, judgement was required as to which source was probably more reliable. I resisted the temptation to correct the spelling of names. Some may be actually misspelled, but I know that some people spell their names in an unusual way or have names which are sometimes used as nicknames, and the person who furnished the name is more likely to know the correct spelling.

I have tried to make this record easy to read and understand by ordinary people. For this reason, I avoided the use of footnotes and reference numbers. Some pertinent references are incorporated in the text. As far as possible, all the information about a person is given in one place. A commonly-used system of indented columns is employed. For example, if a person is listed in the second column, all of his children are listed after him in the third column before any other entry in the first or second columns. Symbols are used to make names stand out, and the number of lines in the symbol indicates which marriage a person was the child of. Immediately after each name is the date and place of birth and death if known. Page numbers are used for reference when information is related to that somewhere else in the book. The first section gives general information about the Wilders as well as highlights of the migrations of our ancestors.

I sincerely hope that, as a result of my efforts, other members of the family, both now and in the future, will gain a better understanding of our relationships and find our heritage as interesting as I have.

Several Wilders have brought distinction to the name. David Wilder, in his 1853 book, The History of Leominster, tells of a Captain David Wilder who was commissioned on April 19, 1775 (the first day of the Revolutionary War) to lead a company of men enlisted into Continental service for eight months. They were part of the 23rd Reg't. of Foot, commanded by Colonel Asa Whitcomb and were stationed on Prospect Hill in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Marshall Pinckney Wilder (1798-1886) was an American merchant and agriculturist born in Rindge, New Hampshire. He served in both houses of the Massachusetts legislature, being chosen President of the Senate in 1850. He was one of the organizers of the Constitutional Union Party. He founded the United States Agricultural Society and the Massachusetts Agricultural College (now Mass. State College), was one of the founders of the Mass. Institute of Technology and held offices in various agricultural and genealogical societies.

Burt Green Wilder, M.D. born in 1841, was an American naturalist and medical educator. He attended Harvard University and taught at Cornell University. He wrote Emergencies and Method of Studying the Brain.

Harris Hawthorne Wilder (1864-1928) was an American zoologist born at Bangor, Maine. He was Professor of Zoology at Smith College.

Laura Elizabeth (Ingalls) Wilder (1867-1957), wife of pioneer Almanzo James Wilder, was born at Pepin, Wis. At the age of 65, she began writing a series of eight books for children. All but one of them are based on her own childhood in the early western United States. She was the first recipient of the Laura Ingalls Wilder Award which was established in 1954 by the Children's Library Association.

Rose (Wilder) Lane, daughter of Almanzo and Laura Ingalls Wilder, was born December 5, 1887 in a claim shanty near De Smet, Dakota Territory (now South Dakota). Besides helping with her mother's books, she became a novelist in her own right and also wrote the official biographies of Henry Ford and Herbert Hoover.

Thornton Niven Wilder, American novelist and playwright, was born 1897 at Madison, Wis. During childhood, he lived in Shanghai and Hong Kong, where his father was Consul General. He taught at Chicago University and at Harvard. He won Pulitzer Prizes for his novel, The Bridge of San Luis Rey and plays, Our Town and The Skin of Our Teeth.

William (Billy) Wilder, American film director and script writer was born 1905 or 1906 in Vienna, Austria. After gaining some experience as a script writer in Berlin, Germany, he came to the United States in 1933 to escape from the Nazi regime. He has worked on many Hollywood films, including both comedy and melodrama.

John Jacob Wilder married Gracia Moor, whose sister, Victoria Josephine (Moor) Coolidge became the mother of Calvin Coolidge, the thirtieth President of the United States. John and Gracia Wilder lived next door to the Coolidge Homestead at Plymouth Notch, Vermont. The Wilder House, which was also the birthplace of President Coolidge's mother, is now used as a hospitality center and coffee shop for visitors to the Calvin Coolidge Memorial Area. The Wilder Barn is now a Farmers' Museum displaying tools and implements used by Vermont farmers of the nineteenth century.

I have not traced any connection between these Wilders and our ancestors, although some of them probably are related to us. I include their names, not to make any claim to fame, but merely to show some interesting background of the name. We are fortunate, however,that members of the family have made some extensive records of Wilder genealogy, from which we can learn much of our family relationships.

The Book of the Wilders was published in 1878 by Moses Hale Wilder of Brooklyn, New York, a Congregational minister who was licensed to preach by the Salem Presbyterian Church. A note by his contemporary,Marshall Pinckney Wilder in the front of this book expresses the view that recording one's ancestry is second in importance only to preparing one's spirit for the Life Eternal. In his book, written after age and poor health forced his retirement from the ministry, Rev. Wilder recorded as much as he could of the descendants of Thomas and Edward Wilder who came from England to the Massachusetts Bay Colony about 1638. He also obtained a record of the Wilders in England going back to a military chieftain named Nicholas at the battle of Bosworth in 1485, and pointed out the probable connection between them and these two immigrants. Rev. Wilder thus preserved much of the first 240 years of Wilder history in America. One of the branches that he traced ended with Harvey Wilder, one of the five sons of Paul Wilder.

More recently, Edwin Milton Wilder, M. D. of Sacramento, California, compiled a revision and extension of the old book. Dr. Wilder, a grandson of Rev. Wilder's younger brother, began this monumental task after a severe illness forced his retirement from medical practice, and spent most of his time for over thirty years on it. We owe Dr. Wilder much gratitude for his devotion and his skill in rounding up and organizing the information on this very large and scattered family. The Wilder Family Foundation, headed by Harold K. Wilder of Richmond, Virginia, a nephew of Dr. Wilder, was organized to publish this material which is so extensive that four large loose leaf binders are required to hold it. The first part was printed sometime between 1961 and the time of the author's death in October of 1963. The last part was completed in 1969. The limited number of copies printed were soon absorbed by members of the foundation and a few selected libraries. The material collected by the late Dr. Wilder has been entrusted to The Newberry Library of Chicago, Illinois for preservation. Mainly from these two books, I have obtained the information on the ancestors of Harvey Wilder which I will include to add greatly to the depth of my compilation. For the most part, I will show only members of the immediate families of these ancestors, leaving out the descendants of their many brothers and sisters. My contribution is a continuation of only one of the thousands of branches of the family traced by Rev. Wilder and Dr. Wilder.

Another book, Wilder and Ware Families in the Southeastern States, was compiled by Colonel William Murtha Wilder of Albany, Georgia, a veteran of fifty years service with the U.S. Army, National Guard and Ready Reserve. Three editions of this book were published (1951, 1960 and 1969) the final edition containing over 23,000 Wilders, mostly descendants of two brothers, Edward and Francis Wilder, who came from England to the Virginia and Maryland colonies about 1648. Through a military contact during World War II Col. Wilder obtained a copy of records and charts held by a Harry H. Wilder of Reading, England, connecting Thomas and Edward Wilder of Massachusetts as well as Edward and Francis Wilder of Virginia and Maryland back to Nicholas, the military chieftain at Bosworth in 1485. He furnished a copy of these records for Dr. Wilder's book. They make a slight correction to the connection assumed by Rev. Wilder. The material collected by Col. Wilder over a period of fifty years is a great contribution to the record of Wilder genealogy. It also gives much of the history of the southeastern United States, uncovered as he traced the movements of his ancestors with the early settlers there.

The Wilder Family, 1962 by William C. Wilder of Wallingford, England is a record of the Wilders of Ipsden, Oxfordshire who couldn't be traced far enough back to connect with the descendants of Nicholas of Bosworth. It includes a Harry Hilliard Wilder, surely he with records mentioned above.

There are other books which show smaller branches of the Wilder family. Joseph Wilder and His Descendants, 1902 by Sidney Augustus Wilder, shows a branch beginning with this man who was born at Pembroke, Maine in 1797. It also traces his ancestors through Edward, the Massachusetts immigrant, and back to Nicholas. Family Scrap Book of the Cock, Ives, O'Loughlin and Wilder Families From the 1600s to 1948 by Orrin Giddings Cocks, D.D. of Wellsboro, Pennsylvania lists the descendants of Jones Warren Wilder who was born in 1832, and traces his ancestry to Thomas, the Massachusetts immigrant. Genealogical Records of the Founders and Early Settlers of Plymouth Vermont, 1967 by Blanche Brown Bryant and Gertrude Elaine Baker gives some of the descendants of Ebenezer Wilder and his ancestry back to Thomas, the Massachusetts immigrant. It includes Harvey Wilder, his wife and one daughter, Alma.

COAT OF ARMS: During the middle ages, men going into battle wore suits of armor and helmets such that it was impossible to see who was inside. In order to avoid the possibility of friends accidentally attacking each other in the heat of battle, they began to paint identifying designs on their shields. These were first used about the time of the Third Crusade, during the latter part of the twelfth century. Later, these designs were embroidered on the surcoat worn over a coat of mail. From this practice, we get the name "coat of arms". A crest, also for identification, was worn on top of the helmet. As the number of these identifying designs grew, and the danger of duplication arose, regulations were set up governing their use, and a standard way of describing them was devised (blazonry). The right to particular armorial bearings was shared by a man with his sons. The design of a lion, first used in France and then in England, is a sign of royalty. It is used by kings and granted to those favored by them as a sign of honor. A savage, in heraldry, is represented as a bearded white man with a band of leaves around his head.

Three different Wilder coats of arms have come to my attention as I gathered material for this book. Both Dr. Wilder and Col. Wilder included one claimed to be the coat of arms given to Nicholas Wylder in 1497 by King Henry VII. It is an attractive color print, showing on the shield, a lion emerging from a set of horizontal stripes. The crest is, as described by Rev. Wilder, "a bust of a savage or an uncultivated, uncivilized man — a man from the forest ". That bust is said by him to be found in The Book of Family Crests, published in 1840 by Washburn, London, Vol. I, p. 65, No. 7892. The motto, VIRTUTI MŒNIA CEDANT, is translated by Rev. Wilder as "Let fortresses yield to valor." Col.Wilder's translation "The strongest wall yields to persistence." conveys the meaning with a different choice of words. The description of these arms is found in Crozier's General Armory, 1904 edition, page 137, and in Burke's General Armory, 1878 edition, page 1111. They are recorded by Crozier as authentic for descendants of Thomas Wilder from Shiplake, Oxfordshire, England, who came to America and settled in Charlestown, Massachusetts in the year 1638. Paintings of these arms can be obtained from Martin and Allardyce of San Antonio, Texas. Although they fit the same description, these paintings are copied from a different original found in Burke's Heraldic Illustrations, 1844 edition.

Rev. Wilder's description of the arms supposed tobe those of Nicholas fits closely the one mentioned above. However, his title page pictures an entirely different escutcheon. He does not identify it, but it probably is either one he claimed as his own or one he mentions as having been confirmed in 1766 to John Wilder, Esq., proprietor of the Sulham Estate. It is divided into six parts with various figures in the different parts including lions emerging from sets of stripes in two of them. These arms have the same crest and motto as that above.

A third Wilder coat of arms is found in a report prepared by Halberts, Inc. of Bath, Ohio. It depicts a savage standing upon a mound and holding an uprooted tree. The savage also forms the crest. There is no motto given for these arms, and no indication of the branch of the family to which they apply. The description, in French, is found in J. B. Rietstap's Armorial General under the heading "Wilder (Munich)". The picture, a poor representation of a savage, was taken from Rolland's Illustrations to the Armorial General by J. B. Rietstap, published in 1967. These are probably the earliest Wilder arms, as they are designed to suggest the name of the bearer. The later designs were more likely to commemorate an adventure or to extoll a characteristic of the bearer.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME: Until about 1100 A.D. most people in Europe had only one name. This caused confusion as communities grew larger and many people had the same name. Second names were added to distinguish between people who had the same first name. These second names usually indicated a man's occupation, his father's name, a peculiar characteristic or where he lived. The name Wilder was probably taken to designate the man of a particular first name who lived in the forest with the wild animals, although it may have indicated a hairy man with the appearance of an animal, or one who was timid or who reacted fiercely when provoked. This surname has been spelled various ways. Col. Wilder found some families in the Southeastern United States using Wylder and Willder. I found some in the census records for Michigan spelled Wilders. Other spellings which are probably variations of the same name include Weilder, Wildeor and Wilde.

The Wilders are believed to have originated in Bohemia (now the western part of Czechoslovakia) and then spread through Germany and France to England. Rev. Wilder tells of a U. S. Army general who found a Wilder village and was entertained at the Wilder House as he passed from Austria through Bohemia. The old Wilder coat of arms from Munich also seems to support this theory of progression. The Halberts report, mentioned before, tells of a William Wilder on the 1327 Subsidy Rolls for Derbyshire, England.

The earliest ancestor we can trace is Nicholas Wylder, a military chieftain in the army of Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond, who won the battle at Bosworth in 1485 to become King Henry VII of England. Because of his name, it is assumed that Nicholas was born in Germany and came with the Earl from France as he began to raise an army against the unscrupulous King Richard III. With the King's favor, Nicholas and his heirs lived in affluence. In 1496, he purchased an estate named Nunhide in the County of Berkshire from a man named John Kent. On April 15, 1497, the King gave him, as a token of his favor, the nearby Sulham Estate and a coat of arms. These properties were passed down and are still owned by his heirs who also bought the palatial Purley Hall in 1777. St. Nicholas Church (an Episcopal Church or Church of England) stands on the Sulham Estate. It was rebuilt in 1832, but a church has been there since the late thirteenth century. Except for a short period, all its rectors from 1785 until 1944 were Wilders. In the early part of the seventeenth century, Thomas Wilder, the second son of a great-grandson of Nicholas apparently lived on the other side of the Thames River in the small community of Shiplake, Oxfordshire. It is quite possible, as Col. Wilder points out, that there were younger members of the families not found in the records who, not being entitled to inherit property, struck out on their own, spreading the name to other parts of the British Empire, including Scotland, Canada and Australia.

Elsewhere, however, Col. Wilder tells of an undocumented family tradition written down in 1926 by Jesse Wilder, Jr. of Whitely County, Kentucky claiming descent from Joab Wilder, a king in Scotland, who in 1680 was deposed by the King of England. This Joab Wilder was said to be descended from a Jasper Wilder who in 1350 A.D. "ran afoul of the wrath of one Homer Vance, a king in Scotland, about religious matters." This Jasper Wilder could have been related to the William Wilder of the 1327 Derbyshire Subsidy Rolls, but certainly was not a descendant of Nicholas Wylder.

Col. Wilder also learned in 1967 of another Wilder line apparently having no connection with the others I have mentioned. It starts with Peter de Wield, born in Flanders in 1545, who came to Colchester, Essex County, England in 1568. His descendants changed the name to de Wilder and de Willder, and then, dropping the "de", spelled it sometimes with a double L and sometimes with a single L.

In England, the seventeenth century was a period of religious dissention and persecution. Many people left the country in search of religious freedom. The Pilgrims sailed on the Mayflower, landing at Plymouth, Massachusetts on December 11,1620 by the Julian Calendar still used then in England, or December 21,1620 by our Gregorian Calendar. Among them was a man named Roger Wilder. Col.

Wilder found that this man was among the descendants of Peter de Wield. He was apparently too poor to pay for his passage, but wanted so much to come to America that he sold his labor for several years in advance. He was an indentured servant in the family of John Carver, the first governor of the Plymouth Colony. However, he was a bachelor and did not survive that first hard winter. He, therefore, had no descendants, though many would like to claim him as an ancestor.

There is no record of any other Wilder in America until about eighteen years later when Martha, the widow of Thomas Wilder of Shiplake (the great, great grandson of Nicholas Wylder), left her eldest son, John in possession of the family estate in England and brought her other two sons and two daughters to the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Martha and a daughter, Mary appear on the passenger list for the ship Confidence which sailed from Southampton the last of April, 1638. Rev. Wilder says she left Shiplake in May, 1638 (probably by the corrected calendar). They arrived at Hingham in November, 1638. It is thought that, after her husband's death, Martha sent three of her children to America with friends and kept her youngest with her as she disposed of her possessions and settled her affairs in preparation for her own departure. At least the records show that Edward received a land grant in Hingham on October 8, 1637 and was made a freeman on May 29, 1644. (A freeman or voter had to be 21 years old and a member of the Congregational Church.) Elizabeth's marriage is recorded in Hingham January 17, 1639, two months after her mother arrived from England. Thomas, apparently the oldest of the immigrant children, lived in Charlestown, about fifteen miles up the bay from the rest of the family. Records there show that in 1640 he was received into the Church, married and was made a freeman. Nineteen years later, he moved about forty miles westward to an area which had been purchased from the Indians to form the community of Nashua or Nashawena (now Lancaster, Massachusetts). This town became the home of many of his offspring for several generations.

This immigrant family thus became respected citizens of this Puritan colony. They endured the hardships of the colonial period, establishing our name among those of the founding fathers. It was these two sons, Thomas, Jr. and Edward, whose descendants, the Massachusetts line, were traced by Rev. Wilder and Dr. Wilder.

Still other Wilders braved the new world in the early colonial period. Two brothers, also descendants of Nicholas Wylder, came from England about 1648 — Edward Wilder to Lower Norfolk County in the Virginia Colony and Francis Wilder to Bird's Creek in the Maryland Colony. Their descendants moved southward with the earliest settlers from one frontier community to another, through the Carolinas and Georgia and westward. Many of the Maryland Wilders went westward to Kentucky. These Wilder families were thus spread throughout the Southeastern United States, helping to shape history in that part of the country. Col. Wilder found that some of these southeastern Wilders, in their wills, granted freedom to slaves they had held. It is likely that some of these freed slaves assumed the name of their former masters, thus providing another source from which the Wilder name has spread around the country.

Another man of this name came to America involuntarily about 1770 or 1775. William Harry Willder was shipwrecked as he sailed from England toward Australia. Another ship picked him up and left him in Savannah, Georgia. He is believed to be a man who disappeared from Leigh, Essex County, England and who, according to records given to Col. Wilder, was a descendant of the Peter de Wield mentioned previously. He stayed in Savannah and married, to start a line concentrated mostly in southeastern Georgia and Florida. His family dropped the extra L and used the name Wilder.

If the family tradition written by Jesse Wilder, Jr. is correct, three of the four sons of Joab Wilder, the deposed Scotch king, came to America. David was said to have settled in Massachusetts and died in a British prison at Valley Forge during the Revolutionary War, leaving a wife and children who migrated to Tennessee and Kentucky. He claimed also that Samuel came to New York and Joab, Jr. came to North Carolina. However, Col. Wilder points out the lack of documentation and shows Jesse, Jr. connected to the line of Edward, the Virginia immigrant.

Wilders have continued coming to America. Rev. Wilder found eight Wilder families in New York and Brooklyn in 1878 who had come from Germany. In the 1880 census records for Michigan, I found ten from Canada and one from Prussia. William (Billy) Wilder, the film director and script writer, came from Germany in 1933. Then in 1958, Bernard Christopher Willder came to Seattle, Washington. He was born in Leigh, Essex County, England in 1934, a descendant of Peter de Wield. It was this recent immigrant who gave Col. Wilder the information about the line originating in Flanders and including Roger Wilder of the Mayflower and a William Harry Wilder who disappeared from Leigh, England, went to sea and is believed to have turned up in Savannah, Georgia as the shipwrecked William Harry Willder.

The Massachusetts Wilders gradually expanded into the surrounding states. Two brothers, Ebenezer and Jacob Wilder, left Sterling, Massachusetts which until 1780 was part of the town of Lancaster, the home of their great, great grandfather Thomas, the immigrant. These brothers were among the earliest settlers of Salt Ash, Vermont (now called Plymouth). According to the Plymouth history mentioned, Ebenezer Wilder was elected in 1789 to the office of Lister at the first Freeman's Meeting in Salt Ash. Jacob Wilder was the second Town Clerk of Plymouth. In 1787, Ebenezer bought a farm on a mile square section which, in 1823, was transferred from Plymouth to Shrewsbury in Rutland County. He is buried in this section on a knoll beyond the decaying Woodward house on a discontinued road. Jacob is buried in Plymouth Notch Cemetery. Some of their grandchildren were probably neighbors to President Coolidge's grandfather. Twenty eight miles northeast of Plymouth is the town of Wilder, Vermont and the Wilder Dam on the Connecticut River as evidence of the influence in this area of some branch of the family.

Harvey Wilder was a son of Paul Wilder and a grandson of Ebenezer. Dr. Wilder presumes his birth to have been in the section of Plymouth, Vermont where Ebenezer's farm was located, although he also says that Paul was an early member of the Baptist Church of Mount Holly. His family apparently moved around Rutland County, especially between Mount Holly and Shrewsbury where Paul was an organizer and deacon of another Baptist Church. At the time of his marriage, both Harvey and his bride, Hannah Maria Warner were residents of Pittsford near the north end of the county. Then by the places of their children's births, we can trace their movements to Plymouth and Mount Holly. In 1833, Harvey bought a piece of land there and transferred it to his father. Then about 1842, they moved to Niagara Co., N.Y. where her sister, Mary and Joseph Bullen lived. They were joined the next year by another sister, Abigail and Edward Wheeler, and the following year the three families and the family of the Bullens' daughter, Filah and D.J. Harrington (21 people in all) left for Michigan, where good land was available at a low price. In June 1844, they arrived at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., a few miles north of Grand Rapids. Joseph Bullen and Edward Wheeler bought land there and Wheeler gave 40 acres to Harvey Wilder as payment for clearing eight acres of farm land. It is thought that they made the trip by land, bringing a cow for milk. The cowbell and trunk that they brought are treasured family relics. Harvey carried a letter of recommendation from William Wheeler testifying that although poor, he was honest and reliable. He thus established his new home in the wilderness six years before the city of Grand Rapids was incorporated. He made the long trip back to Vt. at least once to visit relatives and friends.

Dr. Wilder's book indicates that Harvey's brother, Spencer also came to Michigan, but I could not find any record of him there. There were other Wilders in Michigan, however. The census index for 1880 lists Wilder families in twenty eight counties in the southern part of the state and many of these were found in the same townships at the time of the 1850 census. Rev. Wilder tells about members of other branches of the family who were in Bay City, Tecumseh and Coldwater, Michigan as well as Salt Ash (Plymouth), Vermont and many other places across the country from Maine to California.

Harvey Wilder suffered from rheumatism and died in 1852 at the age of 47, leaving his wife and eight children. He is buried in Brooklawn Cemetery at the north edge of Grand Rapids, Michigan near the corner of Walker Ave. and Four Mile Road. Three of his sons, Spencer, Willard and Edward moved to farms near Hesperia in Newaygo County, Michigan, married and started families there. Willard, Edward and Joseph enlisted in the Union Army during the Civil War. They were the only able-bodied boys of military age in the family. As a result of this service, Willard and Edward died and Joseph was discharged with a Surgeon's Certificate of permanent disability. Although Harvey's family was thus fragmented, there were surviving children who grew up to continue the line. Six generations of his descendants numbering in the hundreds are the subject of this book. Although mostly concentrated for a long time in Kent, Newaygo and Oceana Counties of Michigan, they are now scattered over the country, as are the members of thousands of other Wilder lines, so that wherever you go, you can find a few of this name.

Following is a more detailed family genealogy. I will include branches in England down to the emigrations to America to show the connection between the Massachusetts, Virginia and Maryland lines, taken from notes and charts obtained by Col. Wilder. Beyond the immigrant families, I will list only the immediate families of our ancestors.

— Nicholas Wylder is the earliest ancestor that we can trace. We do not know the date of his birth or death. In 1485, he was a military chieftain in the army of the Earl of Richmond at Bosworth in Leicestershire where the Earl defeated King Richard III to become King Henry VII of England. Because his name is common in Germany, it is assumed that Nicholas was born there and came with the Earl from France, landing at Milford Haven and gathering supporters as they moved eastward across Wales and England. The nearness of this route to Derbyshire, however, raises the possibility that Nicholas was related to the William Wilder found on the Subsidy Rolls for that county in 1327, and joined the Earl in that area leading a group of men angered by King Richard's treachery. At any rate, by his performance in the battle that followed, Nicholas won the esteem of the new King. In 1496, he bought the property called Nunhide in Berkshire from a man named John Kent. Then on April 15,1497, the King gave him, as a token of his favor, the nearby Sulham Estate and a coat of arms. This estate is a few miles from Reading in Berkshire.

Nothing is known of the marriage of Nicholas. Although there could have been other children, we only know of one son shown below in the next column.

— John Wilder of Nunhide died before 1583. He was also in possession of the Sulham Estate in 1525. He married a woman named - Alice (Rev. Wilder says Agnes) who was living in 1577. They had at least two sons and one daughter.

—Henry Wilder of Combe Hants. It is not known how the family acquired this estate. He married in 1580 - Edie Saunders of Burghfield, Berkshire. They had two sons listed below and one chart shows three other children but does not give their names.

- - - — John Wilder of Combe Hants died in 1640. He married 1611 at St. Laurence, Reading - Alice Stryer. They had five sons and one daughter.

— John Wilder, Jr. of Combe Hants was baptized 1612, died 1633. He married 1629 - Anne Larsholme and had one son.

— Samuel Wilder born 1634.

- - - - — Edward Wilder born 1614, died 1687 in Virginia Colony. He is believed to have come to America between 1645 and 1652 and settled in Lower Norfolk County, Virginia. He married first 1640 in England - Marie Dickens. They had a son and a daughter in England.

He married second a woman named + Ann born about 1629. They had at least three sons in Virginia.

— Edward Wilder, Jr. born 1640.

— Deborah Wilder born 1645.

+ Francis Wilder born probably before 1652, died 1723 Norfolk County, Virginia.

+ Henry Wilder born about 1655 in Lower Norfolk Co., Virginia.

+ Mickall Wilder born and died in Norfolk County, Virginia.

- — Nicholas Wilder born 1617, died 1639
- — Ann Wilder born 1620
- — Francis Wilder born 1625, died 1705 in Maryland Colony. He is believed to have come to America about the same time as his brother, Edward and settled at Bird's Creek, Charles County, Maryland. Nothing is known about his marriage, but he had at least one son and three daughters.
  - — John Wilder died 1749 at Bird's Creek, Maryland leaving three sons.
  - — Assence Wilder
  - — Mary Wilder married 1705-John Brown
  - — Ann Wilder
- — William Wilder born 1628

— Thomas Wilder last son of Henry Wilder of Combe Hants

— John Wilder Jr. of Nunhide died 1588 He married — Alice Keats who died 1598. According to Rev. Wilder, her father, Thomas Keats, Esq. built Sulham House and Alice inherited it from him. He also says that John Jr. gave Sulham House to his third son in 1582 and willed the estate to his fourth son, as though title to the mansion was separate from that of the land for a time. Near Sulham House stands an Episcopal Church built by the Wilders, where members of the family worship and where the successive inheritors of the estate are buried. Most of its rectors have been Wilders. John Jr. and Alice had four sons and three daughters, following in the next column. The last two daughters were taken from the account of Rev. Moses H. Wilder.

- - - — John Wilder III of Nunhide bought Sulham from his brother, Thomas in 1598. He married —Margaret, the widow of the same brother. They had two sons and one daughter.

— John Wilder IV of Nunhide. His heirs have kept the Nunhide and Sulham properties. They also bought the palatial residence of Purley Hall in 1777 and sold it about 1965. The latest heir, a resident of Sulham House is Iris Elizabeth (Mrs. Michael) Moon, only child of Henry Arthur John Wilder who died in 1954.

— Margaret Wilder

— Thomas Wilder of Shiplake died in 1634. This community is on the west bank of the Thames, three miles from Henley, Oxfordshire. H. E. Wells-Furby of Shiplake College writes me that the Plowden family owned the only substantial property there from 1560 until 1689. Rev. Wilder must have confused Shiplake with Nunhide when he wrote that the heirs from the son of Nicholas until 1777 were born at Shiplake. He also confused this man with his uncle, Thomas of Sulham. The residence at Shiplake must have been a small one, or if his wife was related to the Plowdens it may have been at Shiplake Court.

I am listing these early ancestors as shown in the records obtained by Col. Wilder and confirmed by information sent by the latest Sulham heirs from their family records. However, the Bodleian Library at Oxford, England has the will of a Thomas Wilder of Shiplake, Oxon, Yeoman dated Jan. 19, 1618 which mentions his sons Isaac, Mathew and Abraham, his daughters Elizabeth and Marie, his brother Richard, his sisters Alice and Elizabeth and his wife Martha. They also have court rolls showing that he received several small pieces of property as a fine in 1613 and deeds showing that his widow sold part of his lands on July 7, 1620 "under the provisions of her late husband's will." This may have been another family in the same community.

Thomas married —Martha—— who died April 20, 1652 at Hingham, Mass. After her husband's death, she is thought to have sent three of her children to America with friends. Then in the spring of 1638, she sailed from Southampton on the Confidence. The passenger list shown in the 1848 edition of The New England Historical and Genealogical Register includes "Martha Wilder, Shiplocke, Oxfordshire, Spinster and Mary Wilder, her daughter." They arrived at Hingham in Nov. 1638. Martha had grants of lots in this town for house, planting, pasture and meadow. They had three sons and two daughters following in the next column.

- - - - - — John Wilder of Shiplake is said to have remained in possession of the family home in England. However, this may be because a quotation from Pedigrees by Berry led Rev. Wilder to identify John Wilder IV of Nunhide as the oldest son of Thomas.

- - - - - - Thomas Wilder Jr. born 1618 in England, died Oct. 23, 1667 at Lancaster in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. It is thought that he came to America before 1638. In 1640 at Charlestown, Massachusetts he was received into the Church, married and was made a freeman. Rev. Wilder found indications in the old records that "he was a substantial, capable man, respected in the community, an active member of the church, a thorough Puritan, jealous of the rights of the brotherhood and willing to resist the encroachments of the ministry, as he estimated them." In 1659, he moved about forty miles westward to an area eight by ten miles which had been purchased from the Indians to form the community then called Nashua or Nashawena. He was supposed to have been forty years old then, from which Rev. Wilder figured his birth to have been in 1618. His 500 acre farm was slightly east of the center of the present town of Lancaster, Mass. A burial ground there, in which Thomas was the first to be interred, was given to the town by his son Thomas III. A stone at that cemetery is inscribed " SACRED to the memory of THOMAS WILDER from Lancaster in England who first settled at Hingham in 1641, & came to this
- town July 1, 1659 & died Oct, 23, 1667,

- leaving three sons viz. Thomas, John & Nathaniel from whom are derived all of the name of Wilder in this town and vicinity." This stone was probably placed there after several generations of retelling had obscured the place of his origin in England and his former home in Massachusetts.

Thomas married in April, 1640 — Anna Eames (according to Dr. Wilder) who died at Lancaster, Mass. June 10, 1692, daughter of Anthony and Mercy (Sampson) Eames. However, a newspaper clipping found in Rev. Wilder's book at the Public Library in Fort Wayne, Indiana shows a letter asserting that Anthony Eames had no daughter Anna. This correspondent suggested that Thomas may have married Anna Johnson of Boston, a sister to Elizabeth Johnson whose husband, Robert Mears of Boston, in his will called Thomas Wilder of Lancaster his brother. Thomas and Anna had three sons and two daughters listed later under next entry in the first column.

- - - - - — Elizabeth Wilder born 1620 or 1621 in England, died 1688. She also is thought to have come to America before 1638. She married Jan. 17, 1639 at Hingham, Mass.-Thomas Ensign of Marshfield, Mass. born 1616, died 1663 at Duxbury, Mass.

- He had come to the Plymouth Colony in 1633 or 1634 and first lived in the town of Scituate. They had one son and two daughters.

— Hannah Ensign baptized July, 1640. She married — Thomas Shephard of Malden, Mass. born 1637 in Dedham, England, died Sept. 29, 1719. They had five sons and one daughter.

— Elizabeth Ensign Rev. Wilder says she married — Nathanael Ward. Dr. Wilder found that she married 1657 or 1658 — Nicholas Wade. They may have been the same man with the name of Wade confused as Ward.

— John Ensign was killed by Indians in King Philip's War. He had only one daughter. The date Dr. Wilder gives as his birth (March 26, 1676) is obviously in error.

- - - - - — Edward Wilder born 1623 in England, died Oct. 28, 1690 in Massachusetts Bay Colony. He came to America before his mother, probably with his brother and sister, Thomas and Elizabeth. He received a grant of land at Hingham, Mass. on Oct. 8, 1637. He later received other grants in his own name and jointly with his mother. He was made a freeman on May 29, 1644 and a selectman in 1667 at Hingham. In 1675, he was impressed into service as a soldier in King Philip's War. Philip, also called Metacomet, was Chief of an Indian tribe which had been friendly to the settlers, but was then angered by the encroachments of the white man. Edward married in 1652 —Elizabeth Eames of Marshfield, Mass. who died June 9, 1692. She was the daughter of Anthony and Mercy (Sampson) Eames. They had four sons and seven daughters.

— Elizabeth Wilder born 1651 or 1652
— John Wilder born 1653
— Ephraim Wilder born 1655, died Oct. 28, 1690, unmarried
— Jabez Wilder born March, 1657 or 1658
— Isaac Wilder born 1658
— Abia Wilder born in 1659, married - William Clark of Plymouth
— Mehitabel Wilder born 1661
— Abigail Wilder born 1662, died Jan. 6, 1717 or 1718, unmarried
— Anna Wilder born 1664
— Hannah Wilder born March 16, 1665, died 1690, unmarried
— Mary Wilder born April 5, 1668

— Mary Wilder born 1625 (calc. by Rev. Wilder) in England, died Dec. 23, 1658 in Massachusetts Bay Colony. She came to America in 1638 with her mother on the ship, Confidence. She lived at Hingham and later at Watertown, Mass.

- She married – Joseph Underwood born about 1614 in England. They had two sons and five daughters.
  - – Mary Underwood born April 13, 1645 married May 18, 1670 – Isaac Onge or Ong.
  - – Martha Underwood
  - – Sarah Underwood born about 1649
  - – Joseph Underwood born 1650
  - – Hannah Underwood married first Oct. 14, 1680 John Gibson. They had two daughters. She married second in 1686 or 1687 + William Shattuck Jr.
  - – Elizabeth Underwood married Sept. 13, 1693 – William Bull. No children.
  - – Thomas Underwood born Oct. 11, 1658

- - - – Nicholas Wilder the second son of John Jr. of Nunhide
  - – William Wilder who, in 1582, was given the Sulham House by his father, John Jr. of Nunhide.
  - – Thomas Wilder of Sulham inherited the Sulham Estate in 1588 at the death of his father, John Jr. of Nunhide. Then, in 1598, he sold his inheritance to his brother, John III of Nunhide. Thomas married a woman named-Margaret, who after his death, married the same brother.
  - – Eleanor Wilder
  - – Joan Wilder taken from Rev. Wilder's account
  - – Alice Wilder also from Rev. Wilder's account

- - – Agnes Wilder daughter of John Sr. of Nunhide. Rev. Wilder says she died 1580. She married-Edward.

Children of Thomas Jr. the immigrant and Anna Wilder (see page 22), three sons and two daughters.

— Mary Wilder born June 30, 1642 probably at Charlestown, Mass. She moved to Lancaster when her father gave her ten acres of land there. She married — Daniel Allen born 1705, son of Walter and Rebecca (Wyman) Allen. He was a cooper in Charlestown. Dr. Wilder lists one son, but mentions that their children were born in Charlestown and Watertown.

— Thomas Wilder III born Sept. 14, 1644 at Charlestown, Mass. died Aug. 7, 1716 at Lancaster, Mass. He and his mother executed his father's will and he inherited the farm at Lancaster. In 1706, he gave the town of Lancaster the burial ground on that farm where his father was interred. He also owned a large tract of land at Clinton, Mass. He served in King William's War (1689 - 1698) and in Queen Ann's War (1701 - 1713).

He married June 25, 1668 at Lancaster, Mass. (according to both Rev. Wilder and Dr. Wilder) — Mary Houghton born Nov. 4, 1653 at Lancaster, Mass. daughter of Ralph Houghton. However, newspaper clippings found in Rev. Wilder's book point out that Dorchester records show her marriage in 1675 to William Bentley. They claim that the Mary which County Court records at Cambridge show he married at the date and place mentioned above was actually Mary Wheeler born in 1646, daughter of Richard and Elizabeth (Turner) Wheeler. In support of this claim, they quote from History of Lancaster by Marvin concerning a grant of land in Ashburnham for service in Phip's expedition: "Joseph Wilder (son of Thomas and Mary Wilder) in the right of his uncle, Samuel Wheeler, his mother's brother who served under Major Wade." Thomas and Mary Wilder had two sons and four daughters. One son, Joseph, was the great, great grandfather of Rev. Moses Hale Wilder. Rev. Wilder suggests that there may have been other children who were killed in massacres by the Indians.

— — John Wilder born 1646 at Charlestown, Mass., died 1718 at Lancaster, Mass. He was a farmer at Lancaster. At the time of the Indian war, he moved to Charlestown and later to Marlboro. He was one of the original proprietors of the town of Worcester. He also held property in the town then known as Six Nations and now as Clinton, Mass. He married May 17, 1672 — Hannah Atherton born Feb. 10, 1658 at Lancaster, Mass. daughter of James and Hannah Atherton. James Atherton came from Wigan, England in 1626. John and Hannah Wilder had four sons and two daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column.

— Elizabeth Wilder born 1648 probably at Charlestown, Massachusetts.

— Nathaniel Wilder born probably Nov. 3, 1650 at Charlestown, Mass., died Aug. 10, 1704. This date of birth was given by Rev. Wilder. Dr. Wilder substituted May for Nov. and also mentioned family tradition that he was born in 1655. At the time of attacks on their settlement, Nathaniel and another young man killed an Indian who had been taken prisoner. They were tried and sentenced to be hung. In October of 1676, they wrote to the General Court apologizing for their crime and asking for pardon. They were released after paying court and jail costs plus a fine of ten pounds each, half of which was given to the Indian who had prosecuted them. Rev. Wilder says, "Nathanael was a brave man, an active, useful citizen, a captain of the militia." Dr. Wilder says that "This Lieut. Nathaniel Wilder" was killed near the gate of his garrison by Indians who also killed his livestock and burned his barn. Records at Middlesex Court of Sessions show "Nathaniel Wilder(1685-1704) and widow, Mary Wilder (1705-1707) are licensed Inn holders and retailers of liquors." He married Nov. 4, 1673 at Lancaster, Mass. — Mary Sawyer born July 4, 1652 or Jan.2, 1653 daughter of Thomas and Mary (Prescott) Sawyer. They had five sons and four daughters, some born in Lancaster and some born in Sudbury, Mass.

Children of John and Hannah (Atherton) Wilder, four sons and two daughters.

— John Wilder born Nov. 5, 1673 at Lancaster, Mass. died Nov. 7, 1756 at Bolton, Mass. He was a farmer of Lancaster. Rev.Wilder gives his baptism as July 12, 1673 and also calls him a farmer of Six Nations (now called Clinton). He served in the Indian wars in 1722 and 1725. From June to November of 1725, both he and his nephew of the same name served in the company commanded by his brother in law, Capt. Josiah Willard. He married in 1699 — Sarah White, daughter of Josiah and Nancy (Rice) White. Josiah White died in November of 1714 and his widow married on July 15, 1718 Thomas Sawyer. Apparently because of this, Rev. Wilder gives Sarah's name as Sawyer. John and Sarah had five sons and three daughters. Rev. Wilder says that their sons were "remarkable for their longevity and strength."

— Thomas Wilder born Jan.2,1676 at Charlestown, Mass. died Feb. 2, 1758. He was a farmer at Six Nations (now Clinton, Mass.). The hole which had been the cellar of his house at the southeast part of town was visible in 1896 before it was flooded to form part of the metropolitan reservoir. He married before 1703 – Sarah or Susannah Hunt who died July 21, 1756. They had three sons and seven daughters. The first son, John, served with his uncle of the same name in the company commanded by another uncle, Capt. Josiah Willard.

– Hannah Wilder born Oct. 31, 1679 at Marlboro, Mass. died Sept. 26, 1728.

– James Wilder born 1681.

– Ebenezer Wilder born June 23, 1683, died Dec. 25, 1745 in his 65th year? He lived at South Lancaster, Mass. He married in June, 1702 – Mercy Houghton born 1684, died Jan. 6, 1733 in her 55th year? She was the daughter of John Houghton. They had two sons and one daughter, listed under the next entry in the first column.

– Anna Wilder born 1690, died 1736. She lived at Lancaster, Mass. She married in 1715 – Col. Josiah Willard born about 1693 at Lancaster, Mass., died Dec. 8, 1750, son of Henry Willard. He was among the first settlers of Lunenburg, Mass. (founded in 1719) and from 1740 until 1750 was in charge of Fort Dummer at the present town of Dummerston in Windham County, Vermont. His uncle, Rev. Samuel Willard was Vice President of Harvard College. Anna and Josiah had nine children.

Children of Ebenezer and Mercy (Houghton) Wilder, two sons and one daughter.

– Benjamin Wilder born 1703, died 1759 at Lancaster, Mass. He was a farmer at Lancaster. By the following record, signed April 19, 1750, Benjamin and his sister sold their interest in their maternal grandfather's estate to their brother: "Benjamin Wilder of Lancaster, Yeoman, Jonathan Wilson of Leominster and Hephzibah Wilson, his wife, all in County of Worcester and Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England ... for 120 Pounds Old Tenor ..... paid by David Wilder of Lancaster ..... grant ..... all our right, title and interest to ye Estate which our honored grandfather John Houghton Esqr. and our uncle William Houghton late of Lancaster died seized and posessed of .... " This record was also signed by Joseph Wilder Jr., Justice of the Peace. Benjamin married Jan. 9, 1735 at Lancaster, Mass. — Jane Robbins who died March 26, 1759 at Lancaster. They had three sons and six daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column.

- — Deacon David Wilder born 1705 at Lancaster, Mass. (part that is now Leominster). He was a farmer on the Nashua River meadows. Rev. Wilder says that he was "the first of a succession of six Davids, all men of distinction." He married first June 10, 1739 at Lancaster, Mass. — Mrs. Anna (Willard) Prentice born 1720, died Sept. 26, 1744. She was the widow of Samuel Prentice, the daughter of Hezekiah and Anna (Wilder) Willard and a great granddaughter of Thomas Wilder Jr. the immigrant. They had one son, David born in 1741, who was a veteran of the French and Indian Wars, was at Ticonderoga in 1760 and was commanding Captain of the Minute Men of Leominster in 1775. This appears to be the same captain mentioned on page 1. Deacon David married second in 1745 + Mrs. Eunice Jennison born 1720, died 1750. They had two sons. He married third Dec. 14, 1751 at Lancaster, Mass. ≠ Martha White born Nov. 24, 1717 at Lancaster, died Nov. 6, 1811. She was the daughter of Josiah Jr. and Abigail (Whitcomb) White. They had four sons and one daughter, including two sets of twins.

- — Hephzibah Wilder born 1707, died 1802. She married in 1733 — Jonathan Wilson of Lancaster born 1706, died 1784. They had six sons and four daughters.

Children of Benjamin and Jane (Robbins) Wilder, three sons and six daughters.

— Benjamin Wilder born March 13, 1736 at Lancaster, Massachusetts.

— Jane Wilder born March 28, 1738 at Lancaster, Mass., died probably before 1765. She married April 29, 1756 at Lancaster — Thomas Gary Jr. They probably had no children.

— Mercy Wilder born July 2, 1739 at Lancaster, Mass.

— Hephzibah Wilder born Sept. 2, 1742 at Lancaster.

— Achsah Wilder born Feb. 15, 1744 or 1745 at Lancaster, Mass. She married March 2, 1769 at Lancaster, Mass. — Ebenezer Ross. They had two sons and one daughter, all born and died at Lancaster.

— Rebecca Wilder born April 18, 1747 at Lancaster, Massachusetts.

— Ebenezer Wilder born Aug. 30, 1749 at Lancaster, Mass., died Oct. 29, 1827 at Shrewsbury, Vermont. He first resided at Sterling, Mass. which, until 1780, was part of the town of Lancaster. Then on Sept. 20, 1787 he bought a farm at Salt Ash, Vermont (now called Plymouth). He was elected to the office of Lister at the first Freeman's Meeting in Salt Ash in 1789. His farm, lot 50, was located on a mile square section which was transferred in 1823 from Plymouth in Windsor County to Shrewsbury in Rutland County. It is identified on the earliest map of Plymouth, drawn in 1796, as "Ebenr Wilder's Pitch". He is buried in this same section on a knoll beyond the decaying Woodward house on a discontinued road. His will, recorded at Rutland Probate Court, was Dated Aug. 28, 1827. He married first Jan. 29, 1776 at Leominster, Mass.— Elizabeth Wilson born Sept. 12, 1758 at Leominster, died April 2, 1794 at Plymouth, Vermont. She was the daughter of his uncle and aunt, Jonathan and Hephzibah (Wilder) Wilson (see page 32). They had four sons and three daughters. He married second Jan. 14, 1795 at Plymouth, Vt. + Deliverance (Dilley) Snow. They had two sons and one daughter. He married third ≠ Submit Foster. They had no children. All of his children are listed under the next entry in the first column.

- — Beulah Wilder born Feb. 14, 1751 at Lancaster, Mass. She married Nov. 10, 1773 at Lancaster— William Brooks. They had one son.

— Jacob Wilder born May 25, 1754 at Lancaster, Mass., died Oct. 10, 1828 at Plymouth, Vermont. He was a Corporal in the Revolutionary War. About 1786, he moved from Lancaster to Plymouth, Vermont. He was the second Town Clerk of Plymouth. He is buried in Plymouth Notch Cemetery. He married Feb. 13, 1777 at Lancaster, Mass. Lydia Sawyer born Dec. 19, 1756 at Lancaster, died Aug. 23, 1836 at Plymouth, Vermont. She was the daughter of Amos and Mary Sawyer. They had four sons and two daughters. Only the first son is listed below in the next column to show a special relationship.

- - — Calvin Wilder born May 7, 1785 at Lancaster, Mass., died Dec. 19, 1864 at Plymouth, Vermont at the age of 80 years 7 months? He was a shoemaker. He married Nov. 22, 1812 at Plymouth, Vt. —Gratia Pinney born 1790, died May 12, 1876 at Brattleboro, Vermont. She was the daughter of John and Priscilla (Glover) Pinney. They had five sons and one daughter. The first son is listed below in the next column.

— Seth Wilder born Feb. 25, 1813 at Plymouth, Vt., died Nov. 19, 1890 at Plymouth. He married May 21, 1846 at Bridgewater, Vermont —Phebe Woodward born 1831 at Bridgewater. She was a daughter of David and Avis Woodward. Phebe married second Sept. 23, 1893 at Bridgewater, Lewis Atwood. Seth and Phebe had one son.

— John Jacob Wilder born May 10, 1846 at Plymouth, Vt., died Sept. 19, 1931 at Plymouth. He was a farmer and a well known amateur fiddler. He married June 18, 1870 at Plymouth —Grace E.(Gratia) Moor born Dec. 30, 1843 at Plymouth, died Jan. 5, 1932. She was the daughter of Hiram D. and Abigail (Franklin) Moor. Her sister, Victoria Josephine Moor born March 14, 1846 at Plymouth, married Col. John Coolidge and had a son, Calvin Coolidge who became the thirtieth President of the United States. John and Gratia Wilder lived next door to the Coolidge Homestead. Their house and barn are now part of the Calvin Coolidge Memorial Area.(see pg. 2) They had one son and three daughters.

Children of Ebenezer Wilder, four sons and three daughters by his first wife — Elizabeth Wilson ; two sons and one daughter by his second wife + Deliverance (Dilley) Snow.

— Paul Wilder born Nov. 30, 1782 probably at Sterling, Mass., died July 9, 1860 at Mount Holly, Vermont. At the time of his marriage, he lived at Plymouth, Vt. All his children are believed to have been born in the section where his father settled. Later, he was a farmer and an early member of the Baptist Church at Mount Holly. About 1844, he moved to Shrewsbury, Vermont and helped to organize the Baptist Church there, also serving as a deacon. By 1850, he was again living at Mount Holly. At the time of their deaths, Paul and his wife resided at the home of their son, Ransel, in the Crowley District of Mount Holly. He married December 1, 1803 at Shrewsbury, Vermont —Hannah Pratt born June 2, 1782 in Massachusetts, died Sept. 2, 1862 at Mount Holly, Vt. She was the daughter of Benjamin and Deborah Pratt. They had five sons and three daughters listed under the next entry in the first column.

— Jonathan Wilder

— Betsey Wilder married a man named — Johnson.

— Nancy Wilder born Aug. 9, 1788 at Plymouth, Vermont, died January 1, 1867 at Shrewsbury, Vt. She never married. In 1850, she was living with her half-brother, Lee Wilder at Shrewsbury.

- — Beulah Wilder born June 7, 1791 at Plymouth, Vt. She married —Nathan Patch.

+ James Robins Wilder born June 19, 1796 at Plymouth, Vermont, died Sept. 25, 1796 at Plymouth.

+ Genea Robins (Jane) Wilder born Feb. 21, 1799 at Plymouth, Vermont.

+ Lee Wilder born July 4, 1800 at Plymouth, Vt., died Aug. 25, 1874 at Shrewsbury, Vt. He was a farmer at Shrewsbury. He married there Jan. 31, 1821 —Deborah Pratt born 1799 in Vt., died Jan. 28, 1866 at Shrewsbury, daughter of John and Nancy (Boyden) Pratt. John Pratt was a brother to the wife of Lee's half brother Paul. They had one daughter and adopted one son.

Children of Paul and Hannah (Pratt) Wilder, five sons and three daughters, following in the next column.

— Harvey Wilder born June 4, 1805 probably at Plymouth, Vt., died Jan. 28, 1852 at Alpine, Kent Co., Mich. At the time of his marriage, he lived at Pittsford, Vt. Then by the birthplaces of his children, we can trace his movements to Plymouth and Mt. Holly, Vt. Records at Mt. Holly show that he bought some land from Asa W. Dudley in 1833 and transferred it to his father. Between 1839 and 1842, he moved his family to Niagara Co., N. Y. where his wife's sister, Mary and Joseph Bullen lived. A son was born there in Somerset Twp. In 1843, they were joined by another sister, Abigail and Edward Wheeler, and the following year the three families and that of the Bullens' daughter, Filah and D. J. Harrington (21 people in all) left for Michigan, where good land was available at a low price. They arrived in June 1844 at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., a few miles north of Grand Rapids. It is thought that they made the trip by land, bringing a cow for milk. The cowbell and trunk they brought are treasured family relics. Edward Wheeler bought the NW¼ of Sect. 22 (Seven Mile Rd. at Walker Ave.) and gave 40 acres of it to Harvey Wilder as payment for clearing eight acres of farm land. This is recorded in History of Kent Co., Mich. published 1881 by Charles C. Chapman. Harvey had a letter of recommendation from William Wheeler testifying that, although poor, he was honest and reliable. His death came a few months after the letter on the preceding page telling of his failing health during the long trip to visit relatives and friends in Vt. It was written to his wife at Alpine by his brother. He is buried in Brooklawn Cemetery near the north edge of Grand Rapids by the corner of Walker Ave. N.W. and Four Mile Road.

Harvey married Sept. 5, 1827 at Pittsford, Vt. —Hannah Maria Warner born July 7, 1807 at Pittsford, Vt., died Nov. 1, 1890 at Walker Twp., Kent Co., Mich.(see page 166) The marriage record at Pittsford gives her name as Mariah Warner and it is remembered that her middle name was pronounced with the long I sound. After Harvey's death, Hannah Maria married second July 14, 1857 at Kent Co. + Joseph Bullen born Dec. 20, 1792 in New York State, died Dec. 26, 1871 at Walker Twp., widower of her sister, Mary. He owned a successful sawmill business. After his death, she apparently lived at Plymouth, Vt. for a time. She signed a certificate of payment of the sawmill mortgage there in Jan. 1877. This certificate for William McNitt and Joseph Wilder was notarized by John C. Coolidge, father of President Calvin Coolidge. Harvey and Hannah

Maria had five sons and three daughters listed in the next section.

— Polly Wilder born Nov. 21, 1808, died Nov. 26, 1891 at Mount Holly, Vt. She married — Rufus Tarble.

— Ransel Wilder born Nov. 19, 1810 in the section of Plymouth, Vt. where his grandfather, Ebenezer Wilder settled, died Jan. 29, 1892 at Ludlow, Vt. He was a farmer in the Crowley district of Mount Holly, Vt. until 1863 when he moved to Ludlow. He married first Jan. 25, 1835 at Mt. Holly, Vt. —Mary (Polly) Crowley born July 31, 1806 at Mount Holly, died March 2, 1843 at Mount Holly. She was the daughter of George C. and Polly (Harris) Crowley. They had one son and one daughter. He married second September 6, 1843 at Wallingford, Vt. + Armenia White born June 22, 1810 at Mount Holly, Vt., died June 3, 1887 at Ludlow, Vt. She was the daughter of Deacon Asa and Amarilla White. They had one son and two daughters.

They had one daughter, Susie Frances Wilder who married Charles Everett Hesselgrave, a teacher and Congregational minister in New Jersey and Connecticut. He married second Nov., 1893 at Ludlow, Vt. + Mary Emma Sawyer born Nov. 15, 1857, died

Feb. 1, 1915 at Ludlow. They had no children.

\+ + + Emaline Armena Wilder born March 9, 1845 at Mt. Holly, Vermont, died Jan. 15, 1884 at Ludlow, Vt. She married at Ludlow — Martin Henry Goddard who died March 14, 1891 at the age of 47 years. They had one son and one daughter.

+ Susan Zilpah Wilder born June 28, 1848 at Mount Holly, Vt., died May 29, 1866 at Ludlow, Vt. She never married.

+ Bradley A. Wilder born about 1852 at Mt. Holly, Vermont, died about 1904 at Troy, N.Y. He married first — Ella Gates and had one daughter. He married second + Lizzie. They had no children.

\- — Asahel Wilder born July 28, 1812 probably at Plymouth, Vt., died Sept. 14, 1879 at Plymouth. On July 8, 1832, he was baptized and became a member of the Mount Holly Baptist Church. On Nov. 8, 1834, his membership was transferred to the church at Rockingham, Vt. He is buried at Ludlow, Vt. He married Dec. 12, 1833 at Rockingham — Miss Mary A. Barry of Rockingham who died Jan. 25, 1889. After the death of her husband, she lived with an adopted daughter at Marlboro, New Hampshire. She is buried at Ludlow.

— Hannah Wilder born March 1, 1814 at Plymouth, Vt., died Jan. 22, 1904. She is buried at Mt. Holly, Vt. She married March 12, 1839 — Abraham Gibson. They had one son and one daughter.

— Alzina Gibson

— son's name unknown

— Spencer Wilder born Sept. 24, 1816, died Feb. 2, 1857. Dr. Wilder says that he moved to Alpena, Mich. He may have confused this man with the son of his brother, Harvey Wilder who moved to Alpine, Mich. At any rate, I was not able to find a census record showing this man in either Alpine or Alpena.

- — Daniel Packer Wilder born May 19, 1817 at Plymouth, Vermont, died Feb. 8, 1903 at Plymouth. He moved from Reading to Ludlow in 1843, to Reading in 1847, to Ludlow in 1852, to Reading in 1854 and to Plymouth in 1859. He operated a general store at Plymouth Union during the 1860s. He was proprietor of a hotel called the Wilder House and also headed a colony of Spiritualists. He helped to promote a school, The Vermont Liberal Institute, to which he transferred the title to the Wilder House on Dec. 12, 1877. He married first August 29, 1839 probably at Reading, Vermont — Charlotte Alzina Fulham born Dec. 13, 1919 at Reading, died March 31, 1883 at Plymouth, Vt. She was a daughter of Rev. Sewall and Mehitabel (Harris) Fulham. They had one son. He married second on Sept. 17, 1888 at Reading + Mrs. Charlotte (Tarbell) Bates, a widow born at Cavendish, daughter of Oliver and Sarah N. Tarbell.

  — Norris Daniel Wilder born Oct. 6, 1851 at Reading, Vt. He married first July 14, 1872 — Alice M. Gates. They had one son. He married second July 10, 1889 + Martha Betsey McWain born March 22, 1859. She was the daughter of Harmon and Amanda (Coolidge) McWain.

    — Newman Wilder born July 2, 1875. He disappeared from Plymouth as a young man.

- — Betsey Wilder born Jan. 20, 1820 probably at Plymouth, Vermont, died November 7, 1895. She married Dec. 29, 1842 at Mount Holly, Vt. — David Atwater who resided at Clarendon, Vermont.

Children of Harvey and Hannah Maria (Warner) Wilder (see page 36) five sons and three daughters following in the next column.

— Abigail Wilder born May 22, 1830 probably at Plymouth, Vermont. The information on her family was supplied to Dr. Wilder by her daughter, Minnie who took the birth dates from the family Bible. Abigail married Jan. 1, 1848 at Kent Co., Mich. —Sherman B. Shaffer. They settled on a 400 acre farm in Paris Twp., Kent Co., Mich. where they remained all their married life, first in a log house and later in a frame house. This site is on Shaffer Avenue in the present city of Kentwood at the southeast edge of Grand Rapids. They had two sons and seven daughters.

— Hattie S. Shaffer born Oct. 6, 1848, died 1935 at St. Petersburg, Fla. She married first Oct. 18, 1888 at Chicago, Ill. —William Loft. She married second at St. Petersburg, Fla. + Frank Wunder. She had no children.

— Orville Shaffer born March 7, 1850, died at the age of 57 at Grand Rapids, Mich. He married at Paris Twp., Kent Co., Mich. —Rose Terrill.

— Adele Shaffer born Oct. 16, 1852. She was living at Pasadena, California in March, 1943. She married at Los Angeles, Cal. — Lewis Kapp. She had no children.

— Julia D. Shaffer born March 3, 1855, died March 29, 1938 at Rockford, Mich. She married at Paris Twp., Kent Co., Mich. on Oct. 21, 1872 in the house in which she was born. She had two sons, both deceased with no children.

- - — Harvey J. Shaffer born June 10, 1857, died June 13, 1884 at Grand Rapids, Mich. He married at Big Rapids, Mich. —Mary Engle.

— Ida M. Shaffer born July 5, 1859, died Nov. 22, 1875.

— Helen M. Shaffer born Nov. 7, 1862, died at the age of 31. She married in 1879 —Louis Carey. She had two daughters, both deceased.

— Jesse M. Shaffer born May 15, 1865, died Dec. 18, 1938 at St. Petersburg, Fla. She married first Oct. 7, 1889 at Grand Rapids, Mich. —William Goldie. She married second in Oregon + George Walling. She had no children.

— Minnie Bell Shaffer born Jan. 28, 1868 at Paris Twp., Kent Co., Mich., died July 27, 1972 at Grand Rapids, Mich. Except for poor vision, she was in remarkable health when she celebrated her 104th birthday at Grand Valley Nursing Center in Grand Rapids. She married June 30, 1897 in the house where she was born —Glenn E. Slater. They had two sons and one daughter. (see page 94)

— Hannah Maria Wilder born Feb. 17, 1832 in Vermont, died May 7, 1915 at Walker Twp., Kent Co., Mich. She married probably 1854 —William McNitt born Sept. 5, 1823 at Brutus Twp., Cayuga Co., N.Y., died July 5, 1884 at Walker Twp., son of Daniel Jr. and Jane (Moores) McNitt. The early history of his family is described in The MacNauchtan Saga, 1951 by Virgil V. McNitt. Also, William H. McNitt of Ann Arbor, Mich. is gathering material for a biographical sketch of William and Hannah (Wilder) McNitt. William had previously married Nov. 19, 1846 at Oakland Co., Mich. —Sarah G. Hall who died childless Sept. 30, 1853. In 1849, he had moved from Thompson Twp., Seneca Co., Ohio to Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich. where he bought a farm the next year. After her marriage, Hannah's brothers, Joseph and Eleazer Wilder came to live with them. Eleazer left when his mother remarried, but Joseph remained until his own marriage. On Dec. 1, 1868, Hannah and Joseph with their spouses formed a partnership to buy and operate the milling business of their stepfather, Joseph Bullen in Walker Twp. William McNitt continued operation of the mill after the partnership was dissolved with the last mortgage payment in Dec. 1876. William and Hannah lived in the house which still stands at the southeast corner of Walker Avenue and Four Mile Road at the north edge of Grand Rapids, Mich. By 1884, her mother, Hannah Maria (Warner) Bullen had come to spend her last years in their home. They are buried in Brooklawn Cemetery near that house. They had two sons and two daughters.

— Walter McNitt born April 8, 1857 at Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich., died March 4, 1904 at Muskegon Co., Mich. For some years, he operated his father's farm at Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich. He is buried in Brooklawn Cemetery at the north edge of Grand Rapids, Michigan. He married March 4, 1880 at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., Mich. —Ella Jane Coon born 1863 at Plainfield Twp., Kent Co., Mich., died 1938 at Kansas City, Mo. She was the daughter of George and Sarah Coon. They had one son and one daughter.(see page 96)

— Sarah Edna McNitt born May 19, 1859 at Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich., died June 20, 1925 at Kent Co., Mich. She married Dec. 22, 1888 —Dow Hankinson born Dec. 20, 1858 at Grovesend, Ontario, Canada, died Nov. 24, 1943 at Kent Co. They are both buried in Greenwood Cemetery at Walker Twp., Kent Co. They had one son and one daughter.(see page 97)

— William Ellsworth McNitt born Jan. 30, 1863 at Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich., died March 1, 1940 at Kent Co., Mich. He married July 24, 1886 —Cora Edna Wiley born Jan. 27, 1868, died Sept. 11, 1955 at Tampa, Florida. They had one son and one daughter.(see page 99)

— Nora May McNitt born May 19, 1868 at Walker Twp., Kent Co., Mich., died Sept. 28, 1925 at Kent Co. She married Sept. 13, 1890 at Kent Co. —Kenneth H. Hankinson born Oct. 10, 1863 at Grovesend, Ontario, Canada, died May 14, 1939 at Kent Co. He was the brother of the husband of her sister, Sarah Edna. They lived on her father's farm at Walker Twp. and kept her mother in her old age. They had one son and three daughters.(see page 100)

Willard Wilder, his widow, Sarah Ann Stoddard and their daughter, Diana

— Willard Wilder born March 30, 1834 at Mount Holly, Vt., died April 8, 1865 at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., Mich. Within a few years after his father died, Willard and two of his brothers moved north into Newaygo County, where land could then be bought for only 75 cents an acre. According to Mich. State Land Office Tract Books of Federal Government Land Sales, he bought the N½ of the NE¼ and the N½ of the NW¼ of Sect. 1, Dayton Twp. on Dec. 22, 1855 and the SW¼ of the NW¼ of that Sect. and the S½ of the SW¼ of the adjoining Sect. 36 of Denver Twp. on Feb. 15, 1856. He sold the N½ of the NE¼ of Sect. 1 to his brother, Edward on Oct. 20, 1858. During the Civil War, he enlisted in the Tenth Regt. of Mich. Cavalry. His military service record shows that he enlisted on Aug. 31, 1863 at Dayton (Twp., Newaygo Co.), Mich. It describes him as 5 ft. 8½ in. high, light complexion, blue eyes and brown hair. It also says he was "Captured at Thornhill, (Grainger Co.) Tenn. Oct. 10, 1864; Confined in the Dept. of W. Va. and E. Tenn. Nov. 21, '64; Admitted to Hospital at Danville, Va. Feb. 7, 1865; treated for Diarrhoea Chronic; returned to prison Feb. 19, '65. Brought from Danville, Va. and confined at Richmond, Va. Feb. 20, '65. Paroled at James River, Va. Feb. 22, 1865; Admitted to Hospital Div. 2 Annapolis, Md. Feb. 22, '65; transferred to Balt., Md. March 13, '65." It also says "he died in U. S. G. Hospital at Baltimore, Md. on the third day of April 1865, by reason of Chronic Diarrhoea." His discharge from the hospital with no hope of recovery was probably given as his death. His widow told of going to him on horseback when she heard of his return. (probably to Grand Rapids, Mich.) He recognized her voice and told the nurse to let his wife come into the room. He lapsed into delerium, talking as though he were still a prisoner in the South. His death came just one day before General Lee surrendered at Appomatox. Unsanitary conditions probably contributed to his terminal illness although his widow blamed starvation in a Confederate prison. A note that she left says, "Willard Wilder enlisted Nov. 18, 1861, captured, taken to Salisbury, transferred to Danville, Georgia, paroled as a prisoner of war, died in the Township of Alpine, Kent Co. He begged for rats to eat while in Confederate prison. He was a living skeleton when he was paroled. His politics, Republican." It is not surprising that she had an error in the place of his imprisonment, but the discrepency in enlistment dates is puzzling. I was not able to find record of more than one term of service. He is buried in Brooklawn Cemetery at the north edge of Grand Rapids, Michigan with his father and mother.

He married July 4, 1856 probably at Newaygo County, Michigan — Sarah Ann Barnhard born May 13, 1841 at Sandusky Co., Ohio, died Sept. 21, 1925 at Grand Rapids, Michigan. She was the daughter of Jacob and Lucinda (Reed) Barnhard. (see page 179) She went to school only one day. On the way home she remarked, "Uncle Silas (Sylvanus?) whitewashed his barn red." and the other children teased her so much that she refused to go back. Her father taught her at home. After Willard's death, she and her children lived with her parents in Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich. The 1870 census shows her as Sarah Slour with her Wilder children in the household of Andrew J. Slour in Denver Twp. of the same county. He was born in Conn.

in 1830. She later married James Stoddard, a Lake Michigan sailor born 1849 in Michigan, died 1913. They lived at Ryerson or Muskegon, Mich. and at Dayton Twp., Newaygo County, but were divorced in 1889. They had one son, Ellsworth J. Stoddard born 1879 probably at Ryerson or Muskegon. Ellsworth married first Elsie Page or Portland and had a son, Carl James Page Portland Stoddard. He married second a woman named Martha, moved to Chicago, Ill. and had a daughter, Lois Stoddard and a son, James Stoddard. Sarah Ann spent her last years with various friends and relatives, not content to stay more than a few months with each. During two such periods with my parents, she related family history such as the experience of her great grandfather, Jonathan Rowley (see Barnhard section) and impressed on them that Willard Wilder was born in the Green Mountains of Vermont. This is all we knew of his past until I began my research. On May 15, 1925, Sarah Ann (known as Grandma Stoddard) went to Zeeland, Mich. and applied for admission to the Michigan Soldiers' Home, giving her residence as Muskegon, Mich. She was admitted to the Home in Grand Rapids on June 22 of the same year. She died three months later in that institution now known as Michigan Veterans' Facility and is buried in the Facility cemetery. Willard and Sarah Ann had two sons and one daughter, listed below in the next column.

- — Daniel Paul Wilder born Dec. 18, 1857 at Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich., died March 5, 1923. As a child, he was teased with the rhyme, "Daniel Paul, he is small. He can squall and that is all." He operated a drey service in Hart, Mich., hauling freight with a wagon drawn by a team of horses. He married — Cecile Everetta Kimmel born 1867, died 1927 in Mississippi. She was the daughter of John and Sarah (Defield) Kimmel. Her brothers and sisters included twins, Edna and Edward , Dolly and Sarah, who married Charles P. Benedict. Daniel and Etta Wilder lived several places in Michigan, including Holton, near Walkerville and at Hart. Then they moved to Berea, a suburb of Cleveland, Ohio. Etta later married Mr. Smith. Daniel and Etta had four sons and four daughters listed below in the next column.

- - - — Sarah Lucinda Wilder born Oct. 8, 1887, died March 4, 1958. She married first June 10, 1908 —Oscar Potter born Aug. 8, 1885, died Aug. 21, 1927. He was the son of Cassius A. and Sarah Jane (Jenny Freeze) Potter. They lived at Cobmoosa, Mich. and had five sons and two daughters.(see page 103) She married second Aug. 12, 1934 at Cadillac, Mich. + Benjamin M. Strait of Hart, Mich. born Nov. 9, 1884, died 1963. He was the son of Peter and Elizabeth (Evans) Strait.

— Blanch R. Wilder born Jan. 28, 1889 at Mason Co., Mich., died March 19, 1955. She married March 4, 1911 — William Henry Burrington born Nov. 19, 1887 at Pentwater, Michigan, died Jan. 5, 1960. He was the son of Abner and Elily Burrington. They had five sons and four daughters.(see page 110)

— Dennis Lawrence Wilder born June 11, 1890 at Holton, Mich., died Jan. 18, 1961 at Muskegon, Mich. He married June 21, 1913 —Mary

Jane (Mamie) Hoffman born Jan. 26, 1896. She is the daughter of George Andrew Gilbert Hoffman and Ella May (Butler) Hoffman and lives in Muskegon. They had four sons and one daughter. (see page 115)

- - - — Ernest Wilder born 1891 in Michigan. He married March 8, 1913 at Berea, Ohio — Anna Wagner born 1893 at Cleveland, Ohio. She was the daughter of James and Augusta (Lipster) Wagner. He married second + Laura. Ernest and Anna had the following six sons and five daughters and probably two others.

— Marcella Wilder
— Katharyn Wilder
— Dorothy Wilder
— Gladys Wilder
— Ernest Wilder
— Robert Wilder
— Arthur Wilder married Anna. They were divorced and he married again. Arthur and Anna had three sons and a daughter.
— Mack Wilder
— Joseph Wilder
— Nancy Wilder
— Benjamin Franklin Wilder
— Glenn Wilder
— Thomas Wilder married — Joyce Shields. They had one son and two daughters.
— a girl who died soon after birth
— Michael Wayne Wilder
— Rose Ann Wilder born Dec. 3, 1971
— Shirly Wilder
— Douglas Wilder

- - — Mable Wilder born 1893 at Hart, Mich., died March 1, 1966. She married July 22, 1913 at Berea, Ohio —Robert S. Stevenson born 1892 at Detroit, Mich. He was a bellman, the son of James S. and Emma (Revere) Stevenson. She married second + Marion G. Paul. She married third ≠ A. Lewis Jenkins. She had a daughter.
  - — Genevieve Stevenson. She married —Lewis Johnson.

— Bernice Irene Wilder born April 30, 1895 at Elbridge Twp., Oceana Co., Mich. She married Oct. 12, 1913 at Berea, Ohio —Mack Riggs born 1890 at Mt. Gilliot, Ohio. He was a laundryman, the son of Mack and Rachael (Tenant) Riggs. They had one son and three daughters.
  - — Helen Riggs
  - — Grace Riggs
  - — Robert Riggs
  - — Betty Riggs

— Rex H. Wilder born May 4, 1898 at Hart, Mich. died July 11, 1967 at Zanesville, Ohio. He married —Elsie Jones born Aug. 1, 1898, died March 17, 1941. She was the daughter of Hattie Jones. Rex and Elsie had one son and two daughters. (see page 117)

— Orlando Paul Wilder born July 31, 1905 at Shelby, Mich., died Feb. 24, 1970. He married Sept. 1, 1934 —Beryl (Doty) Helms born April 14, 1908, died Aug. 28, 1968. A letter that she wrote in 1966 supplied most of the names on the past two pages as well as information about his mother. They had two sons and two daughters. (see page 119)

- - — Harvey Jacob Wilder born March 13,1860 at Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich., died May 16, 1918 at Muskegon, Mich. He lived for a few years in Kansas near Superior, Nebraska, where he was attracted by rich farm land. Within a year after the death of his first wife, he moved to Hart, Mich. He then moved to a farm about five miles east of Pentwater, Mich. on what was known as the Crystal Road. Here he raised his family and endured hardships including a fire which destroyed their house. It is remembered that he was deliberately slow coming to the house when he was called for meals. After his second wife's death, he said about his daughter, "Viola doesn't care whether I eat or not, so I had better come now." He is buried at North Weare Cemetery seven miles north of Hart, Mich. He married first April 27, 1879 —Aurilla J. Davenport born Jan. 15, 1862, died Sept. 15, 1883 at Superior, Nebraska. They had two sons.

He married second February 27, 1886 + Cora Bell Benedict born June 22, 1867 at Fond du Lac Co., Wisconsin, died Jan.31,1913 at Weare Twp., Oceana Co., Mich. (see page 204) She moved to Pentwater, Michigan with her parents, Alexander and Lydia (Snell) Benedict when she was about three months old. She was a deeply religious woman, nominally a Baptist, although she attended services of other evangelistic groups which came into the area at various times. Before her marriage, she had a vision which foretold the main events of her life. As a teen aged girl, she was working

MY MOTHER'S VISION

by Emer L. Wilder

Treasured with the sacred memories
Of childhood's happy years
Is a story that my sainted mother told,
How she journeyed to a city
Where there are no sighs nor tears,
In a vision, like the saints in days of old.
She was roaming, lost and weary
In a forest, dark and dreary
When she came upon a straight and narrow way.
It was but a woodland trail
Where the bravest heart would quail,
For the tow'ring trees shut out the light of day.
Briars stretched across her pathway;
Vines entwined her weary feet;
Tall grass tripped her as she onward tried to roam.
But before her in the distance,
Where the earth and heavens meet,
Like a tiny star, she saw the light of home.

Chorus

I can seem to see in fancy,
That city bright and fair,
Where the spacious streets are paved with glist'ning gold;
Where the jasper walls are studded
With jewels ev'rywhere,
With a glory mortal eyes can ne'er behold.
There my sainted mother dwells,
In that bright celestial sphere,
With its changing scenes of beauty ever new;
For she saw that golden city
While still living with us here,
And I know her wondrous vision has come true.

As she struggled past the briars,
Through the tangled vines and grass,
Lo, each step, the star before her brighter shone,
'Till at last the briars vanished,
And the short grass let her pass;
And the fairest flowers in her path had grown.
Then she reached that dark, cold river
Where the bravest shrink and shiver;
Far below she saw the boatman coming o'er;
But a glad sight met her eyes,
Jesus, Lord of earth and skies,
In His glory, waiting on the other shore.
He was pointing to her name,
Engraved in gold on pages white,
With a smile that seemed to bid her cease to roam;
While beyond, she saw that city,
Glowing with celestial light,
And her loved ones there to bid her welcome home.

Twenty years I watched her journey
To that heavenly abode;
Saw each feature of her vision coming true.
For her children were the briars
Stretched across the narrow road;
While the guiding star before her brighter grew.
But the little lads and lassies
Banished tangled vines and grasses.
As they grew, they eased the toil along her way;
Then, like flowers, seemed to bloom
When with bliss they filled the home
Through the love of Him she followed day by day.
Then one day a message came
To me to hasten quickly home,
For my mother soon would see that city fair;
But ere I again could see her,
She had ceased this earth to roam,
And was happy with those loved ones over there.

in the home of a Pentwater family named Boughton. She had gone to bed while the Boughton family stayed up to play cards. Suddenly her room became very hazy, but she still heard the family laughing over their card game so she knew that she was not asleep. She found herself in a dark, tangled forest with only a narrow path where she could walk. As she followed this path, she had to climb over logs or vines which crossed it. There were nine of these, representing the nine babies she was to have. As she came out of the forest, the path led her into a meadow covered with flowers so beautiful that she hated to walk on them. She had to do this, however, to reach the river, beyond which she could see her father and other loved ones waiting with Jesus. The story of her vision is told in the song composed by her first son, whose words are included on the preceding pages. Her faith in this vision was so great that when she was weak and suffering from appendicitis, she told her doctor to go ahead and operate because she knew she would not die before she had one more child. She was revered by her children, and inspired each of them to seek a satisfying relationship with God. She died of heart failure at the age of forty five while six of her children were still living in her home. She is buried with her husband in the North Weare Cemetery. They had five sons and four daughters.

He composed several songs and wrote poems, examples of which are shown on the following pages. He was a sentimentalist and an avid prohibitionist using the pen name E. Lorenzo. Uncle Emer entered the U. S. Army at Camp Custer during World War I and served in the 310th Field Signal Battalion of the 85th Div. until Sept. 11, 1919. He was overseas from July 20, 1918 until May 24, 1919 engaging in battle at St. Mihiel and minor operations in Meuse, France. He attained the rank of Private First Class. Before the war, he was manager of the Crude Drug Company and later formed the Enterprise Ginseng Company in association with his brothers, Clarence and Melvin for the production and marketing of ginseng, a plant whose roots were used in medicine. He ran for public office several times on the Republican and Prohibition Party tickets. He remained a bachelor, living alone

THE BLOOD STAINS

by Emer L. Wilder

What? My hands stained with blood?
What mortal have I slain?
Oh, who has perished by my act,
That there should be this stain?
See you not that countless throng
By strong drink's hand laid low?
All the battlefields of earth
Could not have slain them so.

But why my hands stained with this blood?
I ne'er have touched a drop,
Much less to sell it, and would fain
All men persuade to stop.
But let me this decision,
From the courts of justice, quote;
"The traffic ne'er could licensed be,
But by the Christian's vote."

I seem to hear the Savior say,
Who died to set men free;
"Your vote that slew the multitudes
Hath done the same to me."
I'll wash those blood stains from my hands,
Oh hosts of heaven take note.
For I'll be sure to cast a state-wide
Prohibition vote.

But look, the blood still on my hands!
Can I not make them clean?
Must these red stains of guilt forever
On my hands be seen?
Perhaps there's something I've forgot
That still I'm Satan's tool.
I'll watch my ballot and be sure
To vote against home rule.

What? Still those blood stains on my hands
When all the state is dry?
I'm sure I did the best I could.
From whence now comes its cry?
But look to other states where still
The multitudes are slain.
The liquor traffic, still your nation
There permits for gain.

Oh, now I'll wash those stains away,
The serpent vile must die.
I'll vote for men that stand foursquare
To make the nation dry.
See! Now the blood stains all have left.
I'm glad I saw the light,
And fought the issue all the way.
My hands are pure and white.

I Know My Mother's There.

THE LIFE OF A BACHELOR

by Treat C. Davis

The apples were red in the orchard,
the meadows were sober and bare.
The woods were aflame with a splendor that glowed in the glorified air.

Through the valley a tremendous murmur rang drowsily all the day long,
While the brook kissed the pebbles and passed them
and sang its perpetual song.

Leaning over the gate of his garden
the leaves all awhirl at his feet,
Treat Davis mused like one who was dreaming
a dream far more bitter than sweet.

'Most forty years old I am
and how do I stand?
Well, I own a good house and barn and forty acres of tolerable land.

There's many a man would be happy with half what I've got to my name,
But I'm not, and I reckon most likely there's something or other to blame.

There's a feeling that sometimes comes on one,
and mostly at this time o' year,
When the birds fly away and the dampness gives notice that winter is near.

There's a feeling that sometimes comes on me
  and makes me 'most wish to be dead.
I don't know exactly what brings it to buzz like a bee in my head.

It may be a change in the season
  with death and decay all around;
Or it may be a wish growing stronger for something that ain't to be found.

There's hardly a day but the neighbors are talking about my affairs.
I don't thank them for minding my business;
  I'm sure I don't meddle with theirs.

But they talk and they talk and the drift of it all is about my dull life.
It is dull, I know that very well,
  but I'm now past the time for a wife.

When a man touches forty like me,
  he had better be saying his prayers
Than fretting himself about women and running his head into snares.

There was Captain Ed Irons went off and got married at past forty five.
If he hadn't done that I don't doubt but the poor fellow would still be alive.

But the woman he took just worried
  his wits out in less than a year,
And finally went off and left him with many a crocodile tear.

But all women are not of that sort;
there are plenty as good as can be;
And if I had married at twenty five,
it might have been better for me.

There's the house and a good one it is,
all furnished and plenty to show;
But I never go in it without feeling a dullness instead of a glow.

A home may be ever so pleasant,
and ever so neat and so fine,
And still have no comfort within it;
and that's what's the matter with mine.

There is never a voice to give welcome,
or never a glad smile to greet;
And my heart never throbs to the musical patter of innocent feet.

What's the use of a man always striving;
he gains but a little at last;
And it generally comes, if at all,
when the time to enjoy it is past.

Now, if I had married at twenty five,
as I had a notion to do,
Who can tell but my heart would be lighter,
the home a more pleasant one too.

But somehow I waited and waited till now I'm most forty years old.
There's plenty of grey hairs in my head;
and my blood has grown sluggish and cold.

I feel more like resting than working;
  and every year that goes by Peers to tell me I'd better be careful,
  and leaves me a trifle less spry.

There's something comes on me in autumn,
  I don't know exactly what way,
That makes me feel sad like and solemn and sets all my ideas astray.

It may be the change of the season,
  with death and decay all around;
Or it may be a wishing and longing for something that's not to be found.

A man without someone to care for is not what a man ought to be;
And a home without someone to cheer it ain't pleasant to have or to see.

Now if I had married at twenty five—
  Pshaw, here I am dwindling on
With a lot of things still to be seen to;
  and the sun as I live almost gone.

There's a chill in the air about sundown;
  I reckon I'd better get round
Or I'll have this old rheumatism shooting
  all through me again, I'll be bound.

He enlisted on March 12, 1862 at Grand Rapids, Mich. for service in the Third Reg't of Michigan Infantry Volunteers during the Civil War. His military service record describes him as a farmer with blue eyes, brown hair, florid complexion and 5 ft. 5½ in. high. He spent at least two months in the hospital before he died of chronic diarrhoea. Although his name is on the family monument at Brooklawn Cemetery in Grand Rapids, it is thought that his body was not returned. He married Aug. 7, 1859 at Dayton Twp. — Iantha E. Hayes born 1840 probably at Yorkshire Center (now Delevan), New York, died between 1880 and 1889 at Dayton Twp. On pension records kept at the National Archives, she gave her residence as Dayton Twp. and her Post Office as Ponama, a lumber camp near Bull Cemetery. She had three half sisters who lived nearby in Newaygo County. The oldest was Nancy who married James Clark Doud, Tracy Ensworth and Rufus K. Barlow. Next was Vashti who married Tolcott Dake and was a witness to Iantha's marriage. The other sister, Esther married Aruna Dake who officiated at Iantha's wedding as Justice of the Peace. Col. Harold Doud of Orange, California has traced the ancestry of these sisters from their father, James Hayes of Yorkshire Center and Attica, N.Y. through Robert Hayes of Strafford, Vermont to Samuel Hayes of Danville, Connecticut and Hanover, New Hampshire. Edward and Iantha had one son who follows in the next column. Iantha married second Sept. 6, 1864 + Joseph Rivait born 1839 in eastern Canada. They lived in Dayton Twp. and apparently had three sons and two daughters: Frankie J. Rivait born June, 1865, died May 10, 1866; Fredie Rivait, probably a twin brother, died Oct. 13, 1870 (Frankie and Fredie are shown on a stone in Bull Cemetery as children of J. and I. Rivait); Ada S. Rivait born 1867 who married Jake Fox and moved to Random Lake, Wisconsin; Myrtle Rivait born April 25, 1872, died April 21, 1889; and Henry Rivait born 1874, died 1926 at Grand Rapids, Mich. He married Margaret McIntyre who died 1962 at the age of 83. Henry's daughter, Mrs. Edward (Myrtle Rivait) Hunting of Grand Rapids says that Iantha died near Aetna and Joseph then moved with his three children to White Cloud, Mich. Her description of the route taken to the place where her grandmother was buried indicates that it was Bull Cemetery although there is no stone to mark her grave there. Joseph Rivait later married a woman named Kate, had a son, Roy and adopted a son Frank. He operated a livery stable in White Cloud in association with his sons.

- - — Edward Monroe Wilder born June 23, 1860 at Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich., died Feb. 29, 1916 at Paris Twp., Kent Co., Mich. He was associated for a while with his stepfather in the livery stable business. He farmed near White Cloud and later at Grand Rapids. He and his second wife operated a rooming house at the corner of Michigan and Division Streets near the old armory in Grand Rapids. At the time of his death, he was a drayman. He married first Oct. 11, 1884 at Denver Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich. — Anna Edgcomb born 1867 probably at Big Prairie Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich. She was the daughter of Silas and Anna (Freeman) Edgcomb. Ed and Anna had one son who follows in the next column. Anna married second before 1894 +Odd Mitchell who died before 1900. She married third ≠Mr. Dumas who operated a restaurant in Grand Rapids. About 1905, Consumers Power Company bought the Edgcomb farm in Big Prairie Twp. which was to be flooded when the Hardy Dam was built. They then moved to Seattle, Washington and Mr. Dumas worked on the streetcars there.

Edward M. Wilder married second Feb. 1, 1904 at Grand Rapids, Mich. +Maud (May) Williams born 1884 at Grand Rapids. She was the daughter of John F. and Catherine (Oriel) Williams. Ed and May had no children.

- - — Ray Wilder born Aug. 6, 1886 at Wilcox Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich. Most of his childhood, he lived with his grandfather, Silas Edgcomb. He had to shout in the old man's ear because he was deaf. According to Elmer Westgate of Morley, Mich., Ray became a career officer in the U.S. Navy based at San Diego, California and was an old man when he retired. I have not been able to learn whether he married or had any children.

Joseph and Polly (Miller) Wilder

— Joseph P. Wilder born July 31, 1842 at Somerset Twp., Niagara Co., New York, died Jan. 5, 1917 at Kent Co., Mich. His birth was during the sojourn in the migration of his parents from Vermont to Michigan. About two years after his father's death, his sister, Hannah married William McNitt, and Joseph went to live with them at Wright Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich. until his own marriage. In the 1860 census, his name is given as Gilbert Wilder, possibly as a result of the joking nature for which he is remembered. On Aug. 12, 1861, he enlisted at Grand Rapids, Mich. for service in the First Regt. of New York Lincoln Cavalry Volunteers during the Civil War. He was discharged Feb. 25, 1862 at Camp Kearney, Va. with a Surgeon's Certificate of permanent disability. The discharge certificate describes him as 5 ft. 4 in. high, light complexion, blue eyes and brown hair. On Dec. 1, 1868, Joseph and his wife formed a partnership with William and Hannah McNitt to buy and operate the milling business of their stepfather, Joseph Bullen at Walker Twp., Kent Co. As soon as the last mortgage payment was made in Dec. 1876, the partnership was dissolved with Joseph getting some farm land and $1,000. Five years later, he sold this land and bought a farm in Sect. 34 of Alpine Twp., Kent Co. His house still stands on a hill at the northeast corner of Walker Ave. and Four Mile Road in Grand Rapids. He is buried in Brooklawn Cemetery near the same corner. His monument gives a record of the date and place of his birth and marriage and the dates when each of his children was born. He married first July 24, 1864 at Chester Twp., Ottawa Co., Mich. — Polly Miller born March 17, 1840 at Seneca Co., Ohio, died Sept. 2, 1900

The history of the Warner family is found in Register of the Ancestors and Descendants of Samuel Warner of Wilbraham, Mass. second edition, 1956 by Katherine W. and Arthur H. Radasch. Our connection with this line was pointed out by William H. McNitt of Ann Arbor, Mich., who has done much research while preparing a biographical sketch of William and Hannah (Wilder) McNitt. The old and distinguished Warner family is traced back to William Warner, who came from Boxstead, Essex County, England to Ipswitch, Essex County, Massachusetts in 1637 bringing his two sons and one daughter. He was granted several pieces of land that year and was made a freeman May 2, 1638. He is believed to have been born March 10, 1585 or 1586 at Great Horkesley, a town near Boxstead, and to have died about 1648 at Ipswitch. It is also believed that his wife's maiden name was Baker and that she died in England before 1635. They had three sons and one daughter following in the next column.

— John Warner baptized Sept. 9, 1612 at Boxstead, England, died in infancy

— Abigail Warner baptized June 2, 1614 at Boxstead, England, died after July 22, 1671 when her will was made at Ipswitch, Mass. She married July 23, 1630 in St. Botolph's Church at Colchester, England —Thomas Wells who died Oct. 26, 1666 at Ipswitch. He came to America on the Susan and Ellen in 1635, but his wife waited until 1637 and came with her father. They had three sons and five daughters living when she made her will.

— John Warner born about 1616 at Boxstead, England, died probably soon after making his will, May 17, 1692 at Hadley, Mass. He came to America with his father in 1637. His purchase of several pieces of land at Ipswitch, Mass. was recorded in 1638. He was one of the petitioners for land for a new community at Quabaug (now Brookfield, Mass.). He moved there in 1665 and built the first house there. However, in 1675, at the beginning of King Philip's War, the Indians destroyed the town and drove the settlers away. John then moved to Hadley, where two of his sons had settled. He married about 1639 —Priscilla Symonds born about 1620 in England, daughter of Mark and Joanna Symonds. They had eight sons and three daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column.

- — Abigail Chapin Warner born June 2, 1799 at Pittsford, Vt., died June 6, 1883 at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., Mich. Her gravestone gives her maiden name of Warner and her middle name of Chapin, which was also her grandmother's maiden name. She married — Edward Wheeler born June 3, 1795 at Brandon, Vt., died July 13, 1880 at Alpine Twp., son of William Wheeler. In 1843, they moved to Niagara Co., N.Y. where her sister, Mary and Joseph Bullen lived. The birth of their daughter that spring at Albany, N.Y. suggests that they may have come from Rutland, Vt. by way of the Erie Canal. Another sister, Hannah Maria and Harvey Wilder had come to Niagara Co. at least a year earlier. The next year, these three families and the Bullens' daughter, Filah and D.J. Harrington set out for Michigan. In June 1844, they arrived at Alpine Twp., Kent Co., a few miles north of Grand Rapids. Edward bought the northwest quarter of Sec. 22 in that Township for $104.50 and agreed to give forty acres to Harvey Wilder as payment for clearing eight acres of farm land.(see History of Kent Co., Mich. published in 1881 by Charles C. Chapman of Chicago.) Edward Wheeler was one of the most respected men of the community. He was elected the first supervisor of Alpine Twp. when it was organized in 1847 and later served as Township Clerk and as Justice of the Peace. Part of his farm now serves as the Alpine Town Hall Cemetery. Abigail and Edward had two sons and one daughter.

The name, Barnhard seems to be quite rare. In the index of a genealogy library, I found only two men of this name and they were from Maryland. However, History of Armstrong County, Pennsylvania tells about a Jacob Barnhart and his brother, John William Barnhart who came from the Rhine country of Germany in 1742, settled in Westmoreland Co., Pa. and later moved to Butler Co., Pa. A Simon Barnhart is mentioned as a cousin to a great-grandson of this Jacob Barnhart. Also, The Barnhart Family of Central and Eastern Pennsylvania, 1965 by Miles Thomas Wetzel of Goshen, Ind. gives another Jacob Barnhart who, with a Henry Barnhart, came from Germany to Philadelphia, Pa. in 1741. Jacob settled on a farm in Philadelphia Co. (now Montgomery Co.) A Jacob Barnhart, apparently from a third Pennsylvania family, is listed in the DAR Patriot Index. Other Barnharts serving in the Revolutionary War were from Pennsylvania, New York and North Carolina, but it seems likely that our line is related to one of these Pennsylvania Jacob Barnharts and is of German extraction. The first that we can be sure of is:

— Simon Barnhard born April 5, 1789 in Pennsylvania, died July 2, 1872 in Newaygo Co., Mich. The date of his birth was calculated from the age and date of death shown on his gravestone at Bull Cemetery three miles east and one mile south of Hesperia, Mich. The place of his birth is given in the 1860 and 1870 census records for Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich. History of Sandusky County, Ohio published in 1882 by H.Z. Williams & Bro. lists Simon Barnhard as owner of 160 acres of land in Section 29 of Range 6, Washington Twp. in 1840. Then on Nov. 8, 1855, he bought from the Federal Government, the $E\frac{1}{2}$ of the $SW\frac{1}{4}$ of Sect. 4, Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co., Mich., and on June 11, 1856, the E½ of the SW¼ and the W½ of the SE¼ of Sect. 33, Denver Twp. He took this second piece of land under the pre-emption provision of the 1841 land act, which means that he had lived on it for some time before buying it. This could have been a few weeks or a few years. The property in Dayton Twp. was sold to Spencer Wilder by Simon and his wife on Nov. 4, 1863. He married Jan. 5, 1808 at Amanda Twp., Fairfield Co., Ohio —Sarah (Sally) Cole born June 20, 1787 in Pa., died April 16, 1872 in Newaygo Co., Mich. On their marriage record and in the 1830 census record for Greencreek Twp., Sandusky Co., Ohio, his name is spelled with a "t" instead of a "d" at the end. This census record shows Simon and his wife with three younger males and six younger females, the oldest being a male between 20 and 30 years old. A comparison of the several records with the biography shown on the next page leaves no doubt that this oldest son is our Jacob Barnhard. The 1870 census shows Simon and Sarah living with Jacob's son, Simon Peter Barnhard. Nothing is known of their other children except that the two listed after Jacob lived nearby in Newaygo Co. and fit the age brackets of two of them and so are assumed to be another son and daughter.

— — Jacob Barnhard born Sept. 29, 1809 at Fairfield Co., Ohio, died Feb. 2, 1888 at Newaygo Co., Mich. He is buried in Bull Cemetery near his parents. In addition to the offices mentioned in the biography shown on the next page, land records for 1858 show that he was Justice of the Peace. He is also thought to have been a school teacher. On Aug. 13, 1856, he bought from the Federal Government the SE¼ of Sect. 4, Dayton Twp., Newaygo Co. adjoining one of his father's land purchases. This is probably where he had built the first "shanty" the year before, as he bought it under

JACOB BARNHARD

Jacob Barnhard, farmer, Section 33, Denver Township, was born in Fairfield Co., Ohio, Sept. 29, 1809. When he was very young his parents left that locality, and after living some time in Pickaway County moved to Sandusky County. Here Jacob lived and worked on his father's farm until 22 years of age, when, in March, 1832, he married Miss Sarah Hiland, daughter of Edward and Mary Hiland, all natives of Ohio. Mrs. Barnhard died in 1836, at her home in Sandusky, leaving two children.

June 21, 1840, Mr. Barnhard married Miss Lucinda Reed, of Seneca Co., Ohio, and daughter of James and Nancy (Rowley) Reed, natives of that state. She was born in Huron Co., Ohio, Feb. 24, 1820. Mr. and Mrs. Barnhard settled on a farm in Sandusky County, where they lived till the spring of 1848, when they moved to Chicago, Ill.; from there they came to Muskegon, this State, where Mr. B. carried the chain to lay out the town. Finally they moved to Newaygo County and settled in Croton Twp. Here Mr. B. located on a farm, where he lived until 1855 when he removed to Dayton Township, and built the first "shanty" in that township. He labored hard and earnestly until he improved 80 acres of heavily timbered land. He has now grown to be an old man, and has always been highly esteemed as a citizen, and recognized as one of the leading men of the community in which he has lived. He has held the offices of Township Clerk, Director, Supervisor, School Inspector, and at one time was Probate Judge. In politics, he sympathizes with the Republican party. March 15, 1883, Mr. Barnhard moved into Denver Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnhard have had seven children: Sarah A., Nancy J., Simon P., Thomas, Sylvanus, Margaret and Jonathan; two are deceased. They are members of the M. E. Church.

the pre-emption provision of the 1841 land act. After Willard Wilder died, Jacob took the three Wilder children (his grandchildren) into his home. He married first March 1832 at Sandusky Co., Ohio —Sarah Hiland born in Ohio, died 1836 at Sandusky Co., daughter of Edward and Mary Hiland. They had two sons, listed under the next entry in the first column. He married second June 21, 1840 + Lucinda Reed born Feb. 24, 1820 at Huron Co., Ohio, died after 1886, daughter of James and Nancy Ann (Rowley) Reed. James Reed appears in the 1820 census record for Ridgefield Twp., Huron Co. The article on the next page written by a daughter of Jacob and Lucinda Barnhard indicates that Nancy's father was Jonathan Rowley.

The National Archives has military service records for only one Revolutionary War soldier named Jonathan Rowley. He was paid for periods of service from March 9 to March 18, 1778 and from May 1 to Nov. 30, 1778 in Capt. Thomas Sawyer's Company of Warren's 15th Regt. Vermont Militia. He was also paid on Oct. 19, 1782 for the loss of a gun in service when he was taken prisoner in 1779. The DAR Patriot Index list him for patriotic service from Vermont. He was born Nov. 18, 1729 at East Haddam, Conn., died after 1800 and married 1756 at Pittsford, Vt. to Esther Hopkins born about 1738. History of the town of Pittsford, Vt. 1872 by A.M. Caverly, M.D. says that he came from Richmond, Berkshire Co., Mass. to Pittsford in the fall of 1773 and settled at the north edge of that town. In May 1777, he sat on a court which examined thirteen Tories who had been captured while making their way to Canada to join the British. On July 7, 1777

CLIPPED OUT OF THE LIFE OF CAPTAIN JONATHAN ROWLEY OF THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR GREAT-GRANDFATHER OF SARAH A. STODDARD

When eighteen years old, he and his brother, James and a neighbor girl were going eight miles home back through thick woods to take yarn to weaver. When half way through, a troop of Indians caught them, took them back to camp, patted Jonathan Rowley on back and said, "Good warrior." He was tall and straight. His brother was a cripple. They took James, bound him, tied him, stripped him of clothes, tied him to a small tree, then cut his skin, stripped him till he died. Jonathan was bound to two large Indians, had to witness it done. The girl had to run for her life. Indians stood in two rows with clubs. If she could get through without being hit, she could go home. She got home.

They kept Jonathan Rowley five years, then sold him to the French. He got away from them and enlisted in George Washington's army. When an out picket, he heard the British coming with muffled oars. He went to the camp and told the inner picket he wanted to see the general. He said, "No, tell me. I carry the message." But he sent, he saw Washington. He told him, the general listened and said, "I guess you are mistaken, Rowley." So Jonathan said, 'Lay one ear on the ground, cover the other." The general did so, he said, "I hear plainly now." He went and aroused all. "Get ready for battle in moonlight." When the enemy got there, he was ready for them and took most of them prisoners. One of Washington's captains was killed. For Rowley saving the army, for his wit he learned while with the Indians, he was appointed Captain. I think part of this is on record.

forces under Gen. Burgoyne, sweeping down over Fort Ticonderoga, attacked the rear guard of the outnumbered American defenders at Hubbardton, Vt. Jonathan Rowley was among those who went to Hubbardton after the battle to bury the dead and turned in guns found there, for use by the Vermont Militia. The loss of Fort Ticonderoga left Pittsford exposed to frequent raids by British and their Indian allies. Jonathan and his sons helped to build a small fort and later supplied materials for a larger garrison near his home for defense of the town. Dr. Caverly records the story of the capture of two sons of Jonathan Rowley, as passed down in the family of a neighbor. Late in Sept. 1777, Joseph, aged 15 and John, 11 were taken by three Indians while fishing at the creek near their home. The savages took a disliking to Joseph, who was not at all clever like John, and made the long hike to Canada very unpleasant. They lived with the tribe about two years, learning many Indian skills, and were then sold as slaves to the French. About one year after the war ended, their father found them in Canada and arranged their exchange for British prisoners. Their experience so weakened Joseph that he died a few years after their return, but John became shrewd with an intense hatred for Indians. He enlisted in the army during the War of 1812 and made many scouting excursions into Indian country. On one of these, he was killed by Indians as he tried to elude them by rowing his boat across Lake Champlain.

While details of this story differ from that on the preceding page, there are enough points of similarity to indicate that they were probably based on the same episode. Variations could have crept into the story with many retellings in both families, and the names are ones which could easily be confused. This clue and the time span involved show that Nancy (Rowley) Reed's father was probably a son of this Jonathan

Rowley who appears in the 1790 and 1800 census records for Pittsford. A John Rowley, a Hiram Rowley and a Samuel Rowley are in the 1820 census record for Miller Twp., Knox Co., Ohio. Following are the children of Jonathan and Esther (Hopkins) Rowley as listed by Dr. Caverly with additional information from a DAR membership application for a descendant of their last daughter:

Hopkins Rowley born Dec. 18, 1758 who served from Feb. 1 to Dec. 1, 1780 in Capt. Parmelee Allen's Co. of Rangers in Maj. Ebenezer Allen's detachment, married Elizabeth Stuart, purchased part of his father's farm and, sometime after 1790, moved to Shoreham;

Jonathan Rowley Jr. who was killed on Lake Champlain in 1777 and is buried at Pittsford according to Revolutionary War Soldiers Who Died in the State of Vt. and a paper read before the Vt. Historical Society on Oct. 27, 1904;

Joseph Rowley born about 1762, said to have died a few years after 1783, but appears with a family in the 1790 and 1800 census records for Pittsford;

John Rowley born about 1766, said to have been killed in the War of 1812;

Elihu Rowley born March 4, 1772, married Chloe Manley;

Isaac Rowley who moved to Ohio;

Jonathan Rowley 2nd;

Samuel Rowley who married Betsy Ward and moved to Ohio about 1812;

Levi Rowley who married Esther Woodward, bought all but one acre of his father's farm on Oct. 13, 1798 and agreed to provide the needs of his parents for the rest of their lives;

Mary Rowley who married John Mott;

Anna Rowley;
Elizabeth Rowley who died Jan. 16, 1779;
Rebecca Rowley;
Esther Rowley who married Phineas Squire, lived some years on the Rowley farm and later moved to Penn; and Sally (Sarah) Rowley born 1784, died after 1854, married July 30, 1803 to Bradley Squire and moved to Washington Twp., Coshocton Co., Ohio.

Lucinda (Reed) Barnhard made shoes for her stepsons before making them for her own children because the older boys had to work in the woods. When her children became jealous over this, she moved them to pity by explaining that the boys had no mother of their own to make shoes for them. Jacob and Lucinda had four sons and three daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column.

- — Simon Barnhard born July 3, 1824 in Ohio, died May 18, 1903. He appears in the 1860 to 1880 census records for Dayton and Denver Twps., Newaygo Co., Mich. and is buried in Bull Cemetery near Simon and Sarah(Cole) Barnhard, so I assume that he is one of their sons. He married — Nancy A. —— born July 3, 1830 in Ohio, died June 30, 1872. They had 5 sons and 6 daughters.
  - — Elizabeth Barnhard born 1847 in Ohio

The record of the Benedict family is found in The Genealogy of the Benedicts in America by Henry Marvin Benedict, published in 1870 and reprinted in 1969 along with a second volume by Elwyn Ellsworth Benedict of East Syracuse, New York. The name is believed to have derived (not descended) from the Order of St. Benedict (Benedictines or Black Monks) whose founder lived in Italy from 480-543 A.D. According to family tradition, the Benedicts were of Latin origin and at the time of the Huguenot persecutions, they left the silk manufacturing district of France to seek refuge in Germany and then moved through Holland to England. An article in the introduction of Volume II, however, suggests that the family may be related to Benedict, the brother of King Canute IV of Denmark (Saint Canute) whose father, Canute the Great became King of England by conquest early in the eleventh century A.D. This article says that the family of this Benedict migrated first to Norwich, England and later to Nottinghamshire where our Benedict ancestors are known to have lived.

A Benedict coat of arms is shown in color in Volume II, although there is no claim of relationship to its bearer. It consists of a red shield with a gold lion rampant holding in his paws the head of a knocker or hammer pierced in the center. The crest is the lion issuant. The illustration is from Eugene Lieber's Heraldry in America which also gives the motto: Benedictus qui patitur (He who suffers will make his own benediction). It is also described in Rietstap's Armorial General.

Thomas Benedict born 1617 at Nottingham, England, died between Feb.28 and March 18, 1689 or 1690 at Norwalk, Conn.

was the first of this name in America. He was the only son of William Benedict, the only son of another William Benedict, the only son of still another William Benedict who lived about 1500 at Nottinghamshire. Thomas' mother may have been Ann (Hunlock) Benedict. Volume II has an article telling of the will of Henry Hunlock of Wingerworth, Derbyshire (a few miles from Nottingham) dated July 13, 1610, which mentions a son, William Benedeke and a daughter, Ann Benedeke. According to the story told by his widow and written by her grandson, Deacon James Benedict, Thomas' mother died when he was young and his father then married a widow Bridgum (Bridgham). After spending some time as an apprentice to a weaver, Thomas came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony on the same ship with his stepsister, Mary in 1638. An article in Volume II says they sailed on the Confidence, but their names do not appear on that passenger list. Thomas Benedict and Mary Bridgum were married about 1640. They stayed for a while in the Massachusetts Bay area and then, leaving that religiously intolerant community, they moved to Long Island where they lived many years in the towns of Southold, Huntington and Jamaica. Everywhere he went, Thomas was recognized as a wise and able leader, enjoying the trust and respect of both neighbors and government officials, as is shown by records of numerous petitions and appointive and elective responsibilities. At Jamaica in 1662, he was involved in establishing the first Presbyterian church in America. While the area was under Dutch rule, he was active in urging its annexation by the government of Connecticut, but nevertheless was appointed as a magistrate by Gov. Stuyvesant. Finally under British rule, Thomas was chosen as a delegate to the first legislative meeting of New York. On April 7, 1665, he was appointed by the governor,

Col. Richard Nichols as a lieutenant in Capt. Bryan Newton's Company of foot soldiers, but records indicate that he moved his family to Norwalk, Conn. the same year. He remained the rest of his life in Norwalk giving many more years of public service, including two terms on the General Assembly. He also served on a committee to set up a town at Paquiage (Danbury) where two of his sons were among the first settlers. His will was dated Feb. 28, 1689-90 and the inventory of his estate was made March 18 of the same year. His wife lived for one hundred years. Thomas and Mary had five sons and four daughters, following in the next column.

— Thomas Benedict Jr. born about 1642 at Southold, L. I., died Nov. 20, 1688-9 at Norwalk, Conn. He married Jan. 1665 —Mary Messenger, daughter of Andrew Messenger of Jamaica, L.I. She was still living when her husband died. They moved to Norwalk at the same time his father did. They had one son and five daughters.

— John Benedict born at Southold, L. I., died probably after 1727 at Norwalk, Conn. where he was active in church and civic affairs. He married Nov. 11, 1670 —Phoebe Gregory born 1649, died 1749, daughter of John and Sarah Gregory of Norwalk. They had six sons and two daughters. Son, James wrote genealogy.

— Samuel Benedict born at Southold, L. I., died April 1719 at Danbury, Conn. In 1684 or 1685, he moved from Norwalk to become one of the first eight settlers of Danbury on land bought from the Indians. The name of his first wife is not known, but they had one son and one daughter. He married second July 7, 1678 + Rebecca Andrews, daughter of Thomas Andrews of Fairfield, Conn. They had three sons and two daughters.

- — James Benedict born Feb. 6, 1649-50 at Southold, Long Island, died after 1717 probably at Danbury, Conn. In the fall of 1684 and the spring of 1685, he moved from Norwalk, Conn. to become one of the first eight settlers of Danbury on land bought from the Indians. He, his brother Samuel, the husband of his sister Sarah and his brother in law Judah Gregory made up half of the families in that new settlement. He married first May 10, 1676 at Norwalk —Sarah Gregory born Dec. 3, 1652, daughter of John and Sarah Gregory. They had three sons and four daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column. He married second before March 1707-8 + Sarah (Porter) Andrus born Dec. 20, 1657, daughter of Robert Porter and widow of Abraham Andrus who had died May 3, 1693.

— Daniel Benedict born at Southold, L.I., died after Feb. 15, 1722-3. He was a soldier engaged in the "direful swamp fight" with the Narragansett Indians near Norwalk, Conn. on Dec. 19, 1675 during King Philip's War. He held the rank of Lieutenant and on Feb. 16, 1677, he received twelve acres of land from the town for his participation in that bloody battle. He moved to Danbury, Conn. selling his property at Norwalk on March 25, 1690. He married —Mary Marvin, daughter of Matthew Marvin of Norwalk. They had one son and three daughters.

— Elizabeth Benedict born at Southold, L. I. She married after 1676 —John Slauson of Stamford, Conn. who had been married once before. They had one son and one daughter.

— Mary Benedict born at Southold, L. I. She married July 17, 1673 —Lieut. John Olmsted of Norwalk, Conn. They had three sons and seven daughters.

— Sarah Benedict born at Southold, L. I. She married Dec. 19, 1679 —James Beebe of Stratford, Conn. He was one of the eight original settlers of Danbury, Conn. in 1685. They had one son and one daughter.

— Rebecca Benedict born before June 1657 at Southold, L. I. She married —Dr. Samuel Wood, who was born and attended medical school in England. They lived at Danbury, Conn. and had two sons.

Children of James and Sarah (Gregory) Benedict, three sons and four daughters following in the next column.

— Sarah Benedict born June 16, 1677

— Rebecca Benedict born 1679, died March 20, 1709. She married Jan. 17, 1704-5 —Samuel Keeler Jr. of Norwalk, Conn.

— Phoebe Benedict born in 1682. She probably married —Thomas Taylor.

— James Benedict born 1685 at Danbury, Conn., died between Sept. 16, 1760 and Oct. 20, 1761. He was the first white male born at Danbury. He was a deacon of the Danbury Congregational Church. He married his stepsister —Mary Andrus born May 18,1689, daughter of Abraham and Sarah (Porter) Andrus. They had five sons and five daughters.

— John Benedict born Oct. 1689, died Feb. 1771. He was styled Captain and served eight times in the Connecticut legislature between Oct. 1739 and May 1765. He married first —Rachel — born 1690, died Feb. 1765. They had five sons and four daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column. He married second + Ruth who was living when he died.

— Thomas Benedict born Nov. 9, 1694, died July 4,1776. He was the fifth justice of the peace at Danbury, Conn. and the first judge of the district. He served in thirty one sessions of the Connecticut legislature between May 1737 and Oct. 1766. He also served as deacon of the church. He married — Abigail Hoyt, daughter of John Hoyt, one of the original settlers of Danbury. They had four sons and seven or eight daughters.

— Elizabeth Benedict born July 1696. She probably married —Samuel Taylor.

This is an old and distinguished name in England. The coat of arms, as shown in Burke's Peerage, Baronetage and Knightage, is a silver shield with a broad blue band across the center, two red mullets or stars above the band and one below. Three crests are given in Fairbairn's Book of Crests: a cubit arm holding an arrow, a stone tower and for Ireland, a stag's head with a crucifix between its antlers. The family motto is PAUPER NON IN SPE (There is no hope in poverty.) Four men of this name came from England to the Massachusetts Bay Colony between 1635 and 1638. The DAR Patriot Index lists 27 of this name, including Brig. Gen. Enoch Poor who commanded a brigade of troops from New Hampshire and New York at Valley Forge during the winter of 1777 and 1778.

— William Poor born about 1820 in Kentucky is the first of our line that I have been able to trace. He was a laborer in White River Twp., Johnson Co., Ind. at the time of the 1850 census. He married —Nancy— born about 1816 in Va. They had at least four sons and two daughters.

The origin of this family is uncertain as Grandpa Newman is said to have claimed to be German at one time and English at another, depending on which nation was in favor. The earliest information is taken from family records.

— Luther Newman born Nov. 19, 1803, died Jan. 12, 1870. He married —Huldah Brooker born May 9, 1803, died Feb. 1856. They had seven sons and three daughters, following in the next column.

— John Newman born Dec. 15, 1823 in New York State, died Nov. 28, 1889. His marriage record gives his age two years younger, and the 1860 U.S. Census for Livonia Twp., Wayne Co., Mich. shows him as a farmer seven years younger than the family record would indicate. He married Feb. 23, 1851 at Redford, Wayne Co., Mich. —Lucy Ann Lesly born about 1829 in Mich. At the time of their marriage, they were both residents of Livonia, Mich. They had two sons and three daughters, listed under the next entry in the first column.
